Iraq Revolt Beaten

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq's government claimed today it had crushed a Nationalist revolt and huge crowds swept through Baghdad proclaiming support for Premier Abdel Krim Kassem, the Iraqi Radio reported.

Slogans shouted by demonstrators could be heard clearly over the Baghdad radio — "Long Live Kassem," "Down with damn Eisenhower" and "Down with the plotters."

The radio said the demonstrators marched to the defence ministry to proclaim their allegiance to Kassem.

The demonstrators handed Kassem a set of resolutions. One asked him to "take the necessary punitive and diplomatic measures against countries plotting against the Iraq Republic," Baghdad Radio said.

PRESUMABLY UAR

The resolution mentioned no nation but it presumably referred to the United Arab Republic. It echoed a government official's charge that an unnamed foreign power had stirred up the trouble. The rebels had announced sympathy with President Nasser's program for Arab unity.

The rebels, whether by choice or necessity, maintained radio silence after signing off with a final claim that they controlled all north Iraq last midnight.

Mystery still surrounded the insurrection led by Col. Abdel Wahab Shawaf in oil-rich Mosul.

OPPOSE NASSER

Kassem's regime has been at loggerheads with Nasser for months over the Iraqi leaders' refusal to adopt a policy of Arab unity along lines advocated in Cairo.

Baghdad radio repeated its claim — denied throughout Monday by the rebels' radio Mosul — that Shawaf had been killed by his own men.

PM Vetoes Farm Subsidy Payments

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker emphasized today he would use every possible means of increasing aid for prairie farmers but he indicated there would be no immediate action to provide growers with the $300,000,000 in deficiency payments they have requested.

In an hour-long speech before the mass delegation of prairie grain growers, he outlined some of the existing and future plans for agriculture — plans to boost farm credit and provide crop insurance, provide aid for wheat exporters and keep intact the low Crown freight rates on export grain.

PROBABLY SONIC BOOM

Strange Blast Rocks Victoria

A mysterious explosion rocked Victoria at 10 a.m. today.

Police, fire, press, and radio phones were kept busy by startled and curious residents from an area covering the whole of Greater Victoria as far north as Royal Oak.

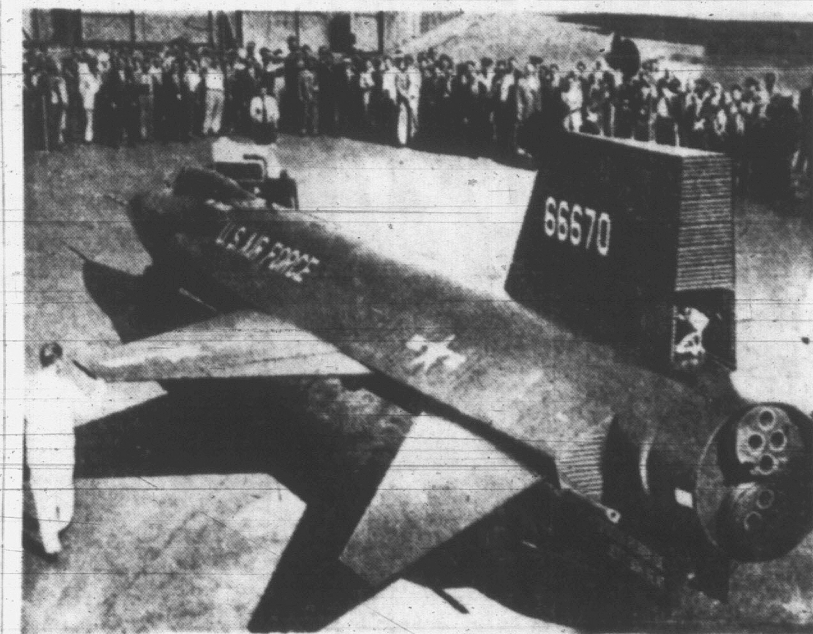

Rock blasting, gas main explosion, and other explanations were quickly ruled out by checks with officials concerned.

Army representatives at Work Point Barracks heard the blast but said they were not responsible, and an RCN spokesman at Esquimalt said no ships were firing in the area.

'BABY' ATOM WEAPONS FIRED FROM SHOULDER?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission disclosed today it has developed or is trying to develop baby-sized nuclear weapons with a wallop of only a ton of TNT.

While the AEC gave no hint as to their possible use, presumably the baby weapons would be designed for infantry use similar to the shoulder-fired Bazooka rocket gun.

ROCKET SHIP TESTED

U.S. rocket ship X-15, expected to carry more than 100 miles into space this summer, today successfully completed its first "captive flight" test at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Sleek, black dart was in the air for an hour and 10 minutes locked to a pylon under the wing of a B-52 bomber. X-15 may be tested on its own later this week.

Western Allies Agree On Berlin Conference

PARIS (UPI) — The Western Powers have agreed on a date and site for an East-West Berlin crisis and the cold war, it was disclosed today.

French and British spokesmen made the disclosure at a joint news conference at the end of two days of talks between British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French President Charles de Gaulle.

They said Britain and France had reached basic agreement on the West's stand toward the Soviets and Berlin. They gave no details, but reliable sources said the United States already is in accord with the policy hammered out here.

The sources said the first East-West meeting would be at the foreign ministers' level in Geneva in mid-May and would be a preliminary to a possible summit meeting in July or August.

Answers: This proposal will be made to the Soviet Union in the forthcoming Western answers to the Russian note of March 2, which urged a summit meeting but accepted the idea of a foreign ministers' parley first.

Firming up of the solid Western front on Berlin seemed to be the principal fruit of Macmillan's visit here.

When he arrived, he was met by noticeable coolness because of French fears about his statement last week about studying the question of withdrawing troops from both sides of the iron curtain.

But all indications now were that he had clarified to De Gaulle's satisfaction any mis-

PEA PAY PROMPTS PEEVE

Queen Wants Farm to Pay

SANDRINGHAM, Eng. (AP) — It's a rare day indeed when the Queen and the mundane matter of money are mentioned in the same breath.

Today it happened, and the cause was the price of peas.

Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip have threatened to cancel a pea-growing contract with a frozen food company.

Furthermore, if the frozen food company doesn't change its pea-buying policy, it can haul away its $8,400 pea separating machine from the Royal Farm in Norfolk.

The controversy came up when the company decided to pay $126 a ton for peas instead of paying by the acre.

The company said no profit could be made paying by the acre and the Royal Farm found there was no profit in growing peas for $126 a ton.

The Royal Couple have told manager Roger Muttimer that Sandringham Farm "must be made to pay its way."

FAMED DIPLOMAT HEADS BOARD

Power Chief An Ace Card On Columbia

By PETE LOUDON

Appointment of Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, world-renowned diplomat and United Nations official to chairmanship of the B.C. Power Commission, gives the province a new power in international negotiations on the Columbia River hydro development.

This was the first reaction of top government officials to the announcement in the House by Premier Bennett Monday.

They said Dr. Keenleyside will be of "inestimable value" to B.C.

His career as a globe-trotting diplomat and statesman has earned admiration of Ottawa and Washington authorities.

The respect on both sides of the border for his abilities could sway settlement of the controversial problem of downstream benefits on the Columbia, it is felt.

Dr. Keenleyside, 60, will be BCPC chairman and special adviser to the B.C. government on power resources, the premier said.

He will replace T. H. Crosby who retires March 31, and will head a new five-man board whose other members are still to be appointed.

Dr. Keenleyside is now under-secretary of public administration for the United Nations at New York.

It was learned Dr. Keenleyside will receive $20,000 a year salary in his new position — $10,000 less than he is reportedly earning in the UN position.

However, it was explained by an informed source, Dr. Keenleyside is mainly interested in returning to his home province to settle.

The task presented by the chairman's duties is more interesting to him than the remuneration.

Dr. Keenleyside today was scheduled to be in Jerusalem on a lecture tour, but is expected back in New York April 1.

He is expected to keep his United Nations post until Dec. 1, handling that work and the Victoria post on a shared-work basis which will require considerable travel between the two cities, until he takes over here on a full-time basis.

The premier made this announcement while the House was considering increasing borrowing powers for the B.C. Power Commission from $250,000,000 to $350,000,000.

He is a man of great experience.

Breach Widens As Cabinet Denies Meet

By PETE LOUDON

The breach between the provincial government and its civil service widened today as a scheduled province-wide strike deadline set for 7 a.m. Friday drew nearer.

A morning meeting of the cabinet failed to grant a B.C. Government Employees Association request for a meeting aimed at averting strike action.

Provincial Secretary W. D. Black instead issued a further statement, to be read, he said, in conjunction with his statement of Monday which announced undefined wage increases.

BCGEA general secretary Ed O'Connor, advised of the cabinet decision, said from Vancouver:

"It's obvious by the tactics of the cabinet, they have no intention of bargaining in good faith, now or at any other time... the strike is still on."

Mr. Black's statement today: "The Civil Service Commission is at liberty at any time to show to interested employees the salary schedules recommended to the government by the Civil Service Commission and which the government has accepted for implementation on April 1, 1959."

SUSPICIOUS Monday he said a $1,500,000 vote in the finance department estimates for civil service increases would be supplemented to "take care of necessary salary increases..."

They would be effective April 1 except for those affecting 136 steam engineers whose increases would date back to April 1, 1958.

The BCGEA expressed doubt on the earlier statement because the premier said before that no funds could be provided except by the legislature. Supplementary votes, it was thought, would come from the cabinet.

WANT TO BE SURE BCGEA officials were adamant in their request for a meeting with the cabinet which might erase all suspicions.

They said they want to be certain the increases promised are those which were arranged earlier in meetings with the Civil Service Commission.

A look at the schedules, as promised today, will not suffice the officials said.

Although Mr. Black has made possible scrutiny of the schedules, the association wants an agreement in writing before calling off the strike.

Mr. Black was asked again this morning if the cabinet

JEWELS GONE

Norah Loses 'Everything' To Thieves

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — Lady Norah Docker reported that somebody stole nearly $500,000 worth of jewels out of her parked car Monday night.

"They've taken all my jewelry, everything I've got," wailed the blonde society figure whose exploits have made her an international headliner.

The loot included emerald bracelets, gem-encrusted earrings, and necklaces set with sapphires and diamonds.

Her industrialist husband, Sir Bernard Docker, said the theft occurred while he and his wife were attending a dinner party.

The car was parked in a dead-end street only 150 yards from the central police station.

Docker said they had the jewels in the car because they were on their way from their country estate at Stockbridge to their London apartment.

RCMP Patrols Charged With 'Strike Breaking'

GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (CP) — President H. Landon Ladd of International Woodworkers of America (IWA) District 2 today wired federal Justice Minister Fulton protesting the use of "strike breakers" of RCMP patrols in the Newfoundland loggers dispute.

The wire came after an announcement by RCMP Inspector E. H. Stevenson that there were about 100 members of the force in the strike area, including about 25 men from the Newfoundland constabulary, a St. John's police force supported by the provincial government.

The air was tense in this paper-mill town today as the newly formed Brotherhood of Newfoundland Woods Workers (Ind.) resumed contract negotiations with officials of the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company.

The tension grew with reports that IWA members and supporters would try to stop members of the new union from crossing IWA picket lines if the brotherhood signs a working agreement with the company.

DEW Line To Cross Greenland

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. defence department announced today that the radar warning line across the top of the continent will be extended across Greenland at a cost of more than $27,000,000.

The distant early warning line now runs from the Aleutian Islands, around Alaska and across Canada to eastern Baffin Island.

It was built to give warning of a bomber attack on North America.

Dr. Keenleyside today was scheduled to be in Jerusalem on a lecture tour, but is expected back in New York April 1.

He is expected to keep his United Nations post until Dec. 1, handling that work and the Victoria post on a shared-work basis which will require considerable travel between the two cities, until he takes over here on a full-time basis.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our Father, each day is another expression of Thy grace to us. We thank Thee for life and the privilege of a part in Thy great plans. May we take the hours as opportunities for serving Thee. Make us good stewards of time to use it wisely in the development of our own characters and in service of others. May we make our lives part payment upon the unpayable debt we owe to Thee; in Jesus' name. Amen.

Glad th' nurses got their raise. Better t' hev 'em nursin' a patient, than nursin' a grievance.

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

Listening to the torrent of words that flows, day and night, through the legislature you sometimes get lightheaded and wonder what the members are trying to say.

Late Monday night I was suddenly reminded of Lord Tennyson's Ode to a Babbling Brook, in which the brook says:

I chatter over stony ways
In little sharps and trebles,
I babble on eddying bays,
I babble on the pebbles.

Certainly the Opposition chatters over "stony ways" in trying to resist the government's departmental estimates.

And the government often takes refuge in "eddying bays" when pressed for information it does not wish to give.

Spearheading the quest for information was that doughty CCF warrior Gordon Dowding from Burnaby. While members drifted upstairs into the restaurant, Mr. Dowding persisted in haranguing Health Minister Eric Martin over the estimates for his department.

He said the minister had deliberately "misled" the people.

"I ask the honorable member to withdraw the word misled," erupted Mr. Martin.

Mr. Dowding didn't feel like withdrawing, so Deputy Speaker Alex Matthew hit on a brilliant compromise. He suggested what Mr. Dowding really meant was that the minister had "erroneously misled" the people.

Whether Mr. Martin really meant that or not, he accepted this nice distinction so that the debate could continue.

CCF Leader Robert Strachan then took up the cudgels.

"How do we get information from your department?" he asked Mr. Martin. "I write letters—courteous letters which start 'Dear Mr. Martin' . . . 'Would you rather I write 'Dear Mr. Scrooge'?"

He complained that the minister preferred to invite members round to his office and chat with them rather than give them something "in black and white."

Mr. Dowding then returned to the fray and his persistence prompted the premier to remark:

"The people in Ottawa want to do away with capital punishment. We only want to do away with Dowding."

To which Mr. Dowding said later:

"I understand the premier is working on a new bill to abolish me."

Seemingly impressed by all this political back-chat which rose from the floor were 37 girls from the George Bowman High School at Cobble Hill.

These lively young ladies sat in the gallery as the guests of Esquimalt MLA Herbert Bruch, who received them at the Golden Gate with his usual good-humored aplomb.

"Was it what you expected?" I asked one of them. "No," she said, "I thought it would be more formal."

Quill pens of many hues are now spreading like a rash all over the House. Government members have green quills, the CCF red and the Liberals pink. And a supply of yellow quills is on order for the press gallery.

Gordon Dowding said he had arranged for the Burnaby Board of Trade to underwrite the cost. Then he added coyly:

"The Burnaby Board of Trade has one paramount object in mind for future development—the lower mainland parksite at Burnaby Lake."

CPR's Income Down Last Year

ABOLITION OF DRIVER MEDICAL URGED

The motor-vehicle branch has been asked by a delegation representing B.C.'s elderly drivers to either abolish the annual physical examination required of drivers over 70, or make all drivers take a physical examination.

They told superintendent George Lindsay Monday if the government insists on a physical examination, then the government should pay for it.

Among delegates were George Bonner, Cobble Hill, president of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association; Mrs. E. M. Fraser, Nanaimo, president of the Island Council for the Old Age Pensioners' Organization; and R. B. Shaw, vice-president, Britannia branch, Canadian Legion, Victoria.

Welfare Men 'Grossly Underpaid'

British Columbia's social welfare officers are "grossly underpaid" and their morale is at a low ebb, Gordon Dowding (CCF-Burnaby) told the legislature Monday.

Mr. Dowding said that the government's estimates for its social welfare department, in proportion to its total budget, are "pitifully low."

"The present starvation of people relying on help from the welfare branch is reminiscent of the 1930s," he said.

"Surely the government could spend a couple of million dollars less on highways and a couple of million more on welfare," Mr. Dowding said.

MONTREAL (CP)—Despite lower net income, 1958 was a year of solid achievement for the Canadian Pacific Railway, President N. R. Crump said Monday in announcing the CPR's annual financial report.

Net income for the year ended Dec. 31, 1958, was $32,903,038 or $2.09 a share, against $46,785,723 or $3.11 a share in 1957.

Gross income was $467,410,853 last year, compared with $487,565,479 in 1957.

Mr. Crump said real progress was made in the use of modern methods and the decline in revenue was matched in expenses.

He cited the outcome of the dispute as to the need for firemen on diesel locomotives in freight and yard service, the move to integrate the handling of less-than-carload freight and express traffic, and the growing success of the piggyback service as a steady increase in the efficiency and quality of railway service.

TRAIL (CP)—Trail Peewees retained the Kootenay Peewee hockey title during the weekend, beating Cranbrook 4-0 and 7-3 in Saturday-Sunday games to win the two-game total-goal series 11-3.

Keep Canadian Airmen Flying, Power Urges

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA—Chubby Power has voiced a plea in the Senate that the RCAF not be grounded.

The future of the air force is a serious thing with Senator Charles Gavan Power (L-Quebec) who as wartime air minister, was mainly responsible for its buildup.

"Let us see to it . . . that Canadian boys will be flying Canadian planes over Canadian soil for the defence of Canada," he said Monday night in a quiet but moving speech. As long as manned aircraft were valid and necessary, RCAF pilots should have Canadian planes to fly, he said.

It did not matter to him so long as the RCAF's wings were not clipped and its officers not relegated to ground duties while U.S. pilots flew their planes over Canadian territory.

There also are fears, he said, that the army will take over the RCAF's air transport duties and that the navy may take over its submarine-hunting role.

Senator Power, speaking in a Senate debate on a bill amending certain parts of the National Defence Act, urged that the identity of Canadian airmen be protected in any partnership with the U.S. Air Force.

He was not prepared to criticize the government's "tremendously difficult" decision to scrap the Arrow jet interceptor program.

Meanwhile, the Commons spent most of the day debating a proposal by Lionel Chevrier (L-Montreal Laurier), former transport minister, calling for the establishment of a publicly owned bridge authority to buy, build and operate bridges linking Montreal Island with the St. Lawrence River south shore.

The report, drawn up by the juvenile home committee, also urged establishment of a Family Court.

Assaults by inmates on the superintendent and his wife and smashing of furniture were blamed on inadequate security facilities in the present home.

The report also said that some juveniles carried black jack and other weapons—including one who had a loaded revolver—into the home when they were admitted.

It also pointed out that parents of the juvenile delinquents seldom helped the situation.

"Cigarettes and even beer have been smuggled in by parents in shopping bags said to contain clothing," the report said.

BRIDGE LINK HINTED

Keel for First New Ferry Laid At Jubilee

Keel for first of the two ferries ordered by the B.C. government for Sidney-Mainland service was laid at Victoria Machinery Depot Ltd. Outer Wharf plant Monday, with Mrs. W. N. Chant, wife of the public works minister, officiating.

Keel for the second ferry will be laid at Burrard Dry Dock, North Vancouver, about April 15.

The 330-foot ferry will be the second largest vessel to be built by VMD since the war, exceeded in size only by the destroyer escort Terra Nova, which is now on contractors' trials.

At the keel-laying ceremony Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi hinted that the ferries might some day be supplanted by bridge or tunnel connections.

"I hope, if we're here long enough," he said, "one day we may be selling these ships to build a highway bridge link to the mainland."

Later Public Works Minister Chant, who was also present at the ceremony, said construction of such a link is possible with modern engineering techniques.

Names for the new ferries have not been chosen, but Mr. Gagliardi said "Saanich" and "Delta" are being considered.

Clubs, Guns, Liquor In Detention Home

A strong recommendation for construction of a properly designed juvenile detention home was contained in a report tabled Monday by inter-municipal committee for study.

The report, drawn up by the juvenile home committee, also urged establishment of a Family Court.

Assaults by inmates on the superintendent and his wife and smashing of furniture were blamed on inadequate security facilities in the present home.

The report also said that some juveniles carried black jack and other weapons—including one who had a loaded revolver—into the home when they were admitted.

It also pointed out that parents of the juvenile delinquents seldom helped the situation.

"Cigarettes and even beer have been smuggled in by parents in shopping bags said to contain clothing," the report said.

Liberals Hurl Taunt of 'Closure'

The debate was halted when the Progressive Conservative majority outvoted the Liberal-CCF opposition 144 to 32 on a motion by John B. Hamilton (PC-York West) to adjourn the private members' debate.

The motion was greeted by Liberal cries of "closure."

Then the House debated briefly a proposal by Gerald W. Baldwin (PC-Peace River) for a Commons committee study of the ownership and operation of the 1,000-mile Northern Alberta Railways, jointly owned by the CPR and the CNR.

Mr. Baldwin described the ownership arrangement, made in 1929 when the NAR was purchased from the Alberta government, as a "legal monstrosity."

The Senate's sitting—three hours and 55 minutes—was its longest in more than 20 years.

The Commons decided its Easter recess will be from Wednesday, March 25, to Monday, April 6.

Ferry Subsidy About $200,000

The new provincial ferry will get a subsidy of about $200,000 under the Toll Highways and Bridges Authority.

Premier Bennett told the legislature Monday construction of the fast ferry service under the toll authority was the only way the province could subsidize it.

The House gave second reading to an increase of $20,000,000 in the authority's borrowing power. Only the 10 CCF members opposed the bill. The Liberals sided with the government.

The total borrowing power would now be $100,000,000. Premier Bennett said the extra money was needed for the ferries, completion of the Deas Island Tunnel and the Second Narrows Bridge.

The ferries are expected to cost about $8,000,000. By statute the government each year pays a 2½ per cent subsidy of total debts to the authority. This would mean some $200,000 for ferry construction.

The three Liberals in the House, George Gregory of Victoria, P. A. Gibbs of Oak Bay and J. Mel Bryan of North Vancouver, supported the vote because of their dedication to the proposed ferry system.

"This is for the ferries only," said Mr. Gregory as he rose to vote.

The premier interpreted opposition to the bill as support of high ferry fares.

He said the CCF reasoning was "the best example of Maple Bridge thinking."

"Before this day is finished you'll stand up and be counted," he warned the opposition. "We'll let the people know you are for high tolls on the ferries."

He added that no government hates tolls more than the Social Crediters and no government has built more toll-free bridges.

The CCF opposed the increase in borrowing power primarily because there are sufficient taxes on the travelling public, said Randolph Harding (CCF-Kaslo-Slocan).

John Tisdalle (SC-Saanich) said the CCF attitude in opposing the vote and indirectly the new ferries, would ensure there would never again be an MLA for the CCF in Saanich.

Mr. Harding said new bridges and tunnels should be built by the province using its credit and making the people of the province as a whole responsible for payment. Toll bridges are an unfair levy against people living near them.

Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East) agreed good roads and good bridges should be a collective social effort because they are necessities to the province.

The treatment of Eczema

Outstanding results in many countries

Thanks to the outstanding results obtained with "F99" these preparations have gained, in only a few years, a solid reputation throughout the world. The "F99" preparations are now available in drug stores in more than 65 countries from Iceland to the Argentine and from Canada to India. In all these countries "F99" is being used with remarkable results even in cases where all ordinary treatments have failed.

Two-way treatment

In cases of Eczema, Furunculosis, Leg Ulcers and Infantile Eczema ask for the "F99" two-way treatment in drug stores:

Internal treatment: Take one "F99" Capsule daily to help suppress the underlying cause of the complaint by means of the blood stream.

For children use the "F99" Liquid instead of the Capsules. External treatment: Apply daily the "F99" Ointment which penetrates the affected skin from the outside.

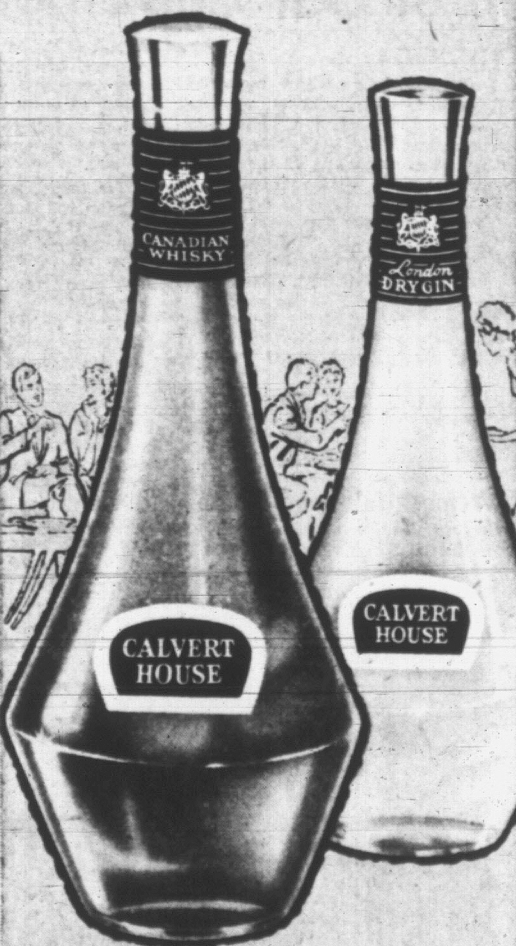

Throughout the world, many thousands of people who had long suffered from Eczema and other skin troubles have found relief thanks to the remarkable development by Swiss chemists.

Since these chemists were able to process a natural remedy extracted from pure vegetable oils, it has been possible to treat with success many of the most obstinate cases of Eczema, Leg Ulcers, Furunculosis (boils) as well as Infantile Eczema.

"F99" is so easily assimilated by the body that it can even be given to infants.

Big Gift From Staff At Jubilee

The Royal Jubilee Hospital drive for a new $410,000 wing achieved nearly 20 per cent of its goal Monday with the donation of more than $45,000 by the hospital's medical staffs.

In turning over the money Dr. L. L. Pitak, representing 78 doctors contributing, said the amount would likely be increased to $50,000 by the end of the month.

To this will be added $31,000 already donated by 600 other employees of the hospital including a heavy donation from the nurses.

The hospital administrator George Masters said that the donations "start our drive off in a magnificent way."

STARTS MONDAY

Cost of the new wing, which will include a "cobalt bomb" for cancer treatment, is $2,410,000, of which $2,000,000 will come from federal, provincial and civic government grants.

Campaign for the remainder of the funds starts Monday when canvassers will contact city business and industrial concerns.

"The employees of the hospital," said Mr. Masters, "are in the best position to realize the urgent needs of the hospital."

"That is why they have been so generous and given leadership to the rest of the community."

LONDON (Reuters)—Paul Robeson arrived here Monday from Moscow after recovering from influenza in the Kremlin hospital. The 60-year-old Negro singer, who will play the title role in Othello at the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon, England, told reporters he was feeling "perfectly fit and well."

Settlement on the Brink

AT ALMOST THE ELEVENTH hour before a threatened strike, Premier Bennett has recognized the wage demands of the provincial civil service. It was a form of brinkmanship which will find little favor with the government's employees nor with the public.

The civil service has a legitimate grievance. That much had been recognized by the Civil Service Commission and has now received belated recognition from the Government.

But, despite any question of the rightness or wrongness of their demands, it is unthinkable that the civil service should walk out on strike. Such a step would constitute a paralysis of the governmental function, a breakdown of the democratic process. Organized society, as we have constructed it, could not exist if the civil service branch of government refused to carry out its necessary duties.

Recognition by the employees of the priority of this type of work means voluntary relinquishment of the strike as a bargaining technique. In return for such relinquishment the employees must be granted some form of bargaining procedure which fully protects their interests and provides fair solutions to all questions that may arise between them and the Government, if necessary by arbitration. The Government, and the public, cannot offer less.

While several matters still remain to be discussed between the civil service and Premier Bennett, it is gratifying to know that the chief point of contention has been settled. The Premier should lose no time in meeting the civil servants' representatives and removing any further cause of controversy and the still existing threat of a strike.

End of the Line

WHEN THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT approved a freight rate increase of 19 per cent last autumn Acting Prime Minister Howard Green said there would be no state subsidies to the railways. If, he added, the Government were to subsidize the railways it would set a dangerous precedent. Similar subsidies would be demanded for many other industries and there would be no end to this process.

But the same Government, with Mr. Green as a distinguished member, is proposing a subsidy of $20 million for the railways. (And by an interesting coincidence, as foreseen by Mr. Green, a large delegation of Canadian farmers is in Ottawa demanding a subsidy for wheat.)

The railway subsidy means that part of the cost of transportation will be paid by the taxpayer instead of being paid by the railway user. Broadly speaking, however, the taxpayer and the railway user are the same person.

As a nation we have not escaped a cent of the extra cost, though it is true that a minor fraction of it has been redistributed.

That is to say, the subsidy will be used, apparently, to reduce somewhat the impact of the freight rate increase in the west and the Maritimes which have long suffered from rate discrimination. The cost in these areas will be increased to some unknown degree just the same; the discrimination will continue and probably will be exaggerated.

The indirect results of the Government's subsidy plan may be more serious in the end than the direct results. For this plan has shown that if the railway unions demand wage increases strongly enough, on the threat of strike, they can rely on the Transport Board to grant them, the railways to pay them and the Government to help the railways out of the national treasury.

An almost automatic mechanism of freight rate increase has thus been established. And we may be sure that the unions and the railways will try to use it again. Before the year is out another round of wage increases seems likely and again the state will be asked, no doubt, to come to the railways' rescue at the cost of the taxpayers. Nothing is better calculated to raise the cost of goods and the general cost of doing business in Canada.

In all this there is no sign of any solution for the railway problem. On the contrary, the continual rise in freight rates, despite state subsidies, must aggravate the problem since the railways continue to price themselves out of the transportation market against competitive trucks and, in places, ships.

The Government realizes that somehow this vicious circle must be broken and intends to break it. But how? Apparently we are to have another of those interminable inquiries that were always going to cure discrimination in freight rates and never did.

Perhaps, however, the next inquiry will be more realistic than the others. If so, it must approach the whole railway problem in a new and bolder fashion. It must go beyond freight rates and get down to fundamentals.

The first fundamental to be considered is how the railways can reduce their costs. There can be no significant reduction in costs, at least while wages continue to advance, unless the railways are allowed to reduce or eliminate unprofitable operations.

Today the railways are compelled to maintain various services and lines that cannot pay their way. In some cases these operations must not be abandoned because they are essential to certain areas. In other cases transportation could be provided more cheaply and efficiently by trucks or ships, or even by airplanes for passenger service.

It will always be difficult politically to reduce any railway service, however obsolete, but it is only in such savings that we can hope to begin a real solution of the railway problem, to prevent more rate increases and avoid still larger costs to the taxpayers.

Why Sink the Plan?

THE CAPITAL REGION PLANNING Board's master plan, launched on a sea of approval for the plan itself, seems headed for the rocks of dissension on the means by which it should be implemented.

The obvious and logical course is to steer around the rocks. That can and should be done to save from oblivion an excellent chart for the future development of this area.

The mayor of Victoria and Reeves of Oak Bay and Central Saanich have been straightforward in their opposition.

Mayor Scurrah, supported by Reeve Murdoch, is unwilling to sign an agreement which would give any two-thirds of the councils involved—and they include Saanich, Sidney and Esquimalt as well as Victoria, Oak Bay and Central Saanich—power to impose development plans on the others.

The mayor makes the point that action on any project could be blocked by "small municipalities," even though the elected representatives of 100,000 persons in the area were for it.

In the face of this argument and the opposition building up to support it, that provision should be laid aside, at least for the present.

In its place should be a clause calling on the councils to adopt the plan in principle.

From that basis the administrative board could proceed to work in a co-operative spirit to realize the objective of the development blueprint.

The councils could move in that direction by consulting the planning agency on the individual projects each considered desirable within its own jurisdiction. That could prevent action detrimental to other districts in the capital region, but, for the time being at least, would retain the autonomy of the local authorities.

It would be tragic if failure to reach a reconciliation on this one item caused the whole master plan to be junked—or even laid aside to gather dust in municipal pigeon-holes.

It must be obvious to those who favor the scheme in its entirety as well as those sharply opposed to the disputed clause that only by planned development can this region grow as it should. Without a plan, the hodge-podge development of other centres will be repeated here, at great cost in money, convenience and enjoyment of life in the future. Another 50 per cent increase in population within 20 years cannot be absorbed haphazardly.

The first requisite before the planners and the municipal bodies concerned is to find a way to make the scheme work, to overcome the initial hurdle which has been detailed above.

That is not too severe a task for human ingenuity represented on the respective councils and other bodies involved.

The Faceless Man in the City of Numbers

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

IN Los Angeles a few days ago I was driven about by a kindly but very angry man. My friend had become infuriated that morning by a notice from his bank, which informed him that in future he would not be known in that institution by his name but only by his number, 10632. He resented the loss of his name, which happened to be Smith, or Jones, or something commonplace like that.

Hutchison

But in the higher, automatic, civilization of America even the humble title of his forefathers was denied him. He was a number only, because a number, punched in a card and run through a business machine, would greatly improve the efficiency of the bank.

WELL, my friend looked over the vast, efficient city of Los Angeles, where a man must travel half a day to meet another man, where traffic moves at 50 miles an hour, when moving, but averages perhaps 20 at most, where mere survival requires most of your energies—my friend looked over this spectacle of efficiency and laughed a harsh, hideous laugh. He had become a number on a card, moving with several million others through this monstrous machine.

Being a newspaperman by profession, he spent the afternoon (while dodging imminent death at every corner in the composition of imaginary news items for the brave new world of faceless numbers. In future, he supposed, a birth notice would read like this:

"Mr. and Mrs. 28937 announce the birth of 28938 (male) at 1.05 a.m., 7/3/59. Thanks to the Bank of Pasadena and Dr. 92675."

WORKING himself up into a passion while he narrowly missed collision with a movie star's Cadillac, my friend went on to compose the report of a fashionable wedding:

"The marriage of State Senator 74624 to the actress, Miss 85231, of 82387 Beverly Hills Boulevard, was celebrated quietly last night before a small congregation of 5,000. In a pleasant double ceremony their 2nd child, 76541, was baptized immediately after the nuptial vows, the Reverend 58443 officiating, and divorce following in Superior Court 847, City 3285 (formerly known as Reno, Nevada)."

I was getting rather tired of the game by this time, especially as my friend, a native of Los Angeles, had become completely lost on its efficient streets and was moving straight south, as I thought, when we had an appointment to correct him since I was guided merely by a crude old device called the sun while he was following the efficient street numbers. So far, as it turned out later, we had lost 32½ miles and missed our lunch as well.

THAT didn't worry my friend. He was used to the efficiency of the world's most up-to-date metropolis. And he went on to compose an obituary notice for his paper in the modern mode: "Death by monetary thrombosis came at 3:17 a.m. today to 75234, distinguished financier, father of Congressman 93867 and intimate of President 65107. He was the son of the well-known pioneer, 78564, who made the family fortune in the gold rush of '49 but lost it in the crash of '29, along with his 5th wife, the notorious 38646, whose measurements, 42-31-36, were a feature of the Broadway musical state in the '90s. The remains will be buried in the safety deposit vault of the 1st Bank of Santa Barbara where the deceased was an honored number."

BY now we were quite lost and well into the countryside, about 60 miles, as I calculated, from the centre of the city while the friends who had invited us to lunch had been waiting 3½ hours. The driver finally stopped his car beside a luxurious golf course and pointed to a stark exhibit in his case against efficiency.

Some gentlemen of less than middle age, all apparently healthy, bronzed and Hollywooded, were playing golf in a truly efficient fashion. Instead of walking between the holes they travelled in dandy little electric carts, the latest gift of the automotive industry to American efficiency.

But that was not the end, said my friend. Science could do still better.

ALL that modern golf needed now was a light, portable machine, modelled on the army bazooka or rocket thrower, which would project a magnetized golf ball into the magnetized cup. Then the game could be played without stirring from the clubhouse veranda and the martini, with a flawless record of 18 holes in 1.

So we never got to the luncheon. We got to my friend's home late at night to find another notice from the bank politely reminding him for writing it again over his signature instead of his number. I seized a revolver from his hand in the nick of time.

I Don't Water Your Dogs

Something that interests me a lot and makes me happy (?) is to see someone passing by on the sidewalk in front of my garden, with two dogs, one ahead and the other behind. The dogs come into my garden, walk anywhere, on the flowers or plants and water where they prefer, a few drops here, a few drops there. Are they not the privileged animals?

Yes, I understand very well that you love your dogs, but have I no right to love my garden as much? You do not like to see anyone hurt your animals. I have the same feeling for my plants. So let's be sensible. I'll see that my garden will not bother you, and you please control your dogs.

TV's Start

I was quite interested in your article in the Times recently about television. It was in the "Ask the Times" section and read as follows, "To settle a bet who first conceived of the idea of television and of what nationality was he?"

Your answer was that Paul Nipkow of Germany might be right, but television was first demonstrated by John Logie Baird, in Hastings, England, in 1924.

I have a picture of the plaque that commemorates this achievement, and would gladly lend it to you if you want it.

It was sent to me from one of the local papers in Hastings, at my request.

Pensions—Here and There

Being a steady reader of your paper, The Victoria Daily Times, I naturally look for items that affect old age pensioners who are so poorly paid. To exist on $55 per month appears frightfully tragic to me as an "observer."

The item appearing in your paper a few days ago mentioning some prominent person attempting to adopt the American Social Security plan into this country, that it would take too much time and that it "couldn't be done," seems to me to be so ridiculous. It is not necessary to go outside to try and improve matters for old, old age pensioners.

He mentions $125 as the standard pension set in the Social Security plan in the U.S.A. The wages are 30 per cent higher than ours. That would mean that $125 is a 100 per cent pension over there. To get down to rock bottom figures we might concede 70 per cent as the allowance our old age pensioners should receive here to meet up with their 30 per cent deficit in our earnings.

Seventy per cent of the $125 mentioned in the American Social Security plan could mean that our old age pensioners should receive $87.50 per month instead of the meagre $55. That would certainly bring lots of happiness to the old age pensioners and enable them to live a far better life.

"OBSERVER."

(Editor's Note: Under the U.S. plan, no one receives any pension who has not contributed a percentage of his income over a period of years and built up a fund to which employers also contribute.)

Mobilize Or Give

By JOSEPH ALSOP
From Washington

THERE is only one thing that is fairly certain about Prime Minister Macmillan's forthcoming visit to Washington to discuss the Berlin crisis. Macmillan will inevitably demand that the President choose between waging peace, or taking up his sword. In other words, Macmillan will argue that his experiences in Moscow now leave only two courses open to the West. Either the United States and the other Western Allies must agree on the kind of concessions that may produce a negotiated settlement of the Berlin problem. Or the West, and the United States above all, must immediately make the kind of military preparations which will convince the Kremlin that our "firm" Berlin policy is more than empty talk.

The Macmillan argument will not make pleasant hearing for the President, who indignantly denounced the idea of mobilization at his last press conference. Nonetheless the Prime Minister will oppose going on any longer as we have been going, loudly proclaiming that "we won't give an inch," and simultaneously though less loudly adding, "or mobilize a man either."

Open Warning

In view of his public experiences in Moscow, it would be only natural for Macmillan to insist upon getting ready to give several inches or mobilize a great many men. The interruption of Macmillan's negotiations by Nikita Khrushchev's brutal public speech about Berlin, was not just a piece of flagrant rudeness to the British Prime Minister. It was an open warning to the whole West, and a warning of the sharpest kind at that.

But it is known that Macmillan's post-Moscow attitude also has another, thus far non-public source.

In his talks with Macmillan before their negotiations were virtually broken off, Nikita Khrushchev considerably surpassed all his previous boasts about the new superiority of Soviet nuclear striking power.

The details of Khrushchev's latest claims are still hidden. No doubt Macmillan took the claims with a grain of salt. But they at least convinced Macmillan of the unwisdom of trying to combine tough talk with total neglect of all military aspects of the crisis.

On this same point, an American voice that deserves to be heard with extreme respect has now spoken out. With great disinterestedness—for he owes no debt to John Foster Dulles—Dean G. Acheson has consistently and vigorously supported the firm policy of his successor as Secretary of State.

Full Preparation

In a major article just published in the Saturday Evening Post, Acheson does not withdraw a word of his support for the Dulles policy. But he vigorously insists that prosecution of the Dulles policy demands full, immediate and national mobilization, including large scale mobilization of ground forces.

Acheson couples his demand for mobilization with a deeply interesting proposal for conducting the test at Berlin without final resort to the nuclear deterrent—if any test is necessary after mobilization shows we mean business. But this part of Acheson's plan of action is too complex and too interesting to be presented in summary. It deserves to be studied at length.

Acheson has gone further than anyone else who has spoken out to date. Yet there is also a powerful behind-the-scenes ferment inside the U.S. administration.

In his Congressional testimony, the Chief of Staff of the Army, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, has come pretty close to acknowledging the need to mobilize. Even more important, the leader of the Strategic Air Command, Gen. Thomas S. Power, has asked for authority to mount an airborne alert of his vital, dangerously exposed force; and although he has been refused, the airborne alert is ceasing to be a closed question. There are stirrings, too, at the state department.

Applying Pressure

Pressure is beginning to be felt, as well, from quarters to whose pressure the administration generally responds.

Until now the reverence of Time and Life for the Eisenhower administration has continuously surpassed the reverence for the pre-Munich London Times for the administration of Stanley Baldwin and Neville Chamberlain. But recently the Luce press endorsed the call for national mobilization made on the floor of the Senate by the freshman Democrat, Thomas Dodd of Connecticut.

All the signs suggest, in short, that the time is getting nearer when a serious choice will indeed have to be made, however reluctant the President may be. All the nations of the West, most specifically including the United States, have been the targets of the most naked military threats from the Kremlin.

The due-date for the threats is rapidly approaching. In these circumstances, it is downright frivolous to go on talking "not giving an inch," while not mobilizing a man. It is to be hoped, therefore, that Macmillan forces the choice, without further delay.

'Bigger and Better'

IT'S risky to discuss Canadian education in terms of a United States report. Canadian educators don't like it. They point out, with some justification, that Canadian and United States education are two different things.

My friends in the profession won't thank me for the suggestion, but it seems to me that they have two ways of looking at educational issues raised by our neighbors. If the issue reflects adversely on the schools, teachers and administrators, my Canadian friends argue that Canada has never gone to American extremes and that the criticism is not applicable here.

You remember when Rudolf Fiesch was pouring gasoline on the fire of reading controversy a few years back? Locally the experts were saying that the problem was purely American, that we didn't suffer from their faults. The same with the attack on the progressives. We never tried to be as "progressive" as the Americans, my friends argued.

On the other hand, when the development is favorable, Canadians are frequently prone to say "we too," only better.

There are differences, and we're touchy.

Even so, there is a lot in Dr. James Bryant Conant's report on "The American High School Today" which should claim Canadian attention.

Dr. Conant went into the diplomatic service after serving as president of Harvard University. He returned to education for his recent study when he left the ambassadorial ranks.

In his current work he has not concerned himself with the "Blackboard Jungle" and the sensationalized extremes of some American schools. He has tried to put forward suggestions which will make the American high school a more effective agency to educate "his country's youth, train it in democracy and give particular attention to the bright student.

For that last objective, giving the bright student all he can handle, he favors the big high school. Only in the big school, he believes, is it economically possible to provide the courses and the teachers required for the job.

And his emphasis on the teaching of bright students centres on advanced courses in mathematics, science and foreign languages.

That stress on the big high school is particularly interesting to British Columbia. This province started to enlarge school districts back in 1946. That policy and the post-war wave of your population have produced what seem to many of us tremendous educational plants.

Many of us have looked at this development with misgivings. How, we wanted to know, can a school operate when it is so large individual pupils become mere numbers on a registration form, when it is impossible for teachers to know the students as they did in the days of the small school?

We've been strong on that individual attention theory—and it still stands up, but not quite the way we had figured it.

It's still possible to give individual attention to students in a big high school, provided the classes are not too large. And, when you think of it, there isn't too much value in all the teachers knowing all the students whether the latter are in their classes or not.

It seems logical to assume that when the enrolment is big enough to permit special courses for the bright student—that is, when there are enough in the top 15 or 20 per cent to fill a classroom—there will be a sufficient number to justify a specially competent teacher to handle the job of giving them advanced work.

In a smaller high school, there would be insufficient to fill a class. Hence some of the less bright would be demanding part of the teacher's time and energy to provide instruction at a rate below that of the whizz kids.

Some of us think that the bright students are capable of moving ahead on their own ability—and a number of them no doubt are. At the same time, some need to be spurred on if they are going to develop their potential abilities. Dr. Conant is apparently looking at this type and also weighing the advantage of stimulating even those with self-propulsion.

That makes sense. Maybe too many of us have been too nervous about the faults of the big school. Certainly the record of achievement in British Columbia during recent years suggests the very large high school is outshining the small one on a percentage basis. But there could, of course, be other reasons. Big highs exist in urban regions where the other educational facilities are found.

U.K. GETTING ATOM ENGINE FROM U.S.

LONDON (AP)—The United States will supply the nuclear engine for Britain's first atomic submarine, the Dreadnought, the government said Monday.

C. I. Orr-Ewing, parliamentary secretary to the admiralty, told the House of Commons the U.S. would also make available full design and manufacturing details for the engine.

With an American-built power plant, the 3,000-ton Dreadnought will be operating a year earlier than if she had to wait for a British engine, a navy spokesman said.

War Pensions Hike Asked

OTTAWA (CP)—A 33 1/2 per cent increase in pensions paid to Canada's war disability pensioners was proposed today by the Dominion command of the War Amputations of Canada.

The association in an eight-page brief presented to the Commons veterans' committee said the boost is needed because "of the decreased value of the dollar."

The maximum war disability pension now is $150 a month for single veterans. The wife of a married veteran receives an additional $50 a month and varying amounts are provided for children.

The Hong Kong Veterans Association in a second brief asked for a special federal payment to former Canadian prisoners of the Japanese to compensate them for "forced slave labor." It suggested that the amount of the payment be $1.50 a day for each day the prisoner was in the hands of the Japanese.

Spinning Around

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Several times a week I hear from people who want to know what to do for Meniere's disease. Often they tell me they are past 60 or 70 years of age, and then I know that the probability is that they haven't Meniere's disease, because it does not usually show up that late in life. Also, many tell me that they have been to three or four good ear men who all said they couldn't find a thing wrong with the ears. That, again, rules out Meniere's disease. In this disease, as described by Meniere, hearing in at least one ear should be injured.

Alvarez

True Meniere's disease comes usually in people of middle age or younger, who get repeated attacks in which the room seems to spin around, or the person feels he is spinning around; he has nausea and perhaps vomiting, and there may be some ear noises. Then an ear man finds there is something wrong with one inner ear. Usually he will tell the person to cut down on the amount of table salt he uses, or he gives him nicotinic acid to take, or he tries out a number of drugs. Unfortunately, in most cases I have seen, nothing helped spectacularly until the disease was ready to stop of itself.

The dizziness of old people comes suddenly, with just one attack; an attack which is followed, not by a feeling of spinning around but more by a lack of good feeling of balance. The person fears that he may fall down, but in all but a rare case he doesn't. Often I know the brain is injured because with the woozy and perhaps frightening spell there come certain symptoms indicating injury to other nerves coming out of the brain, besides the one to the ear. For instance, one of my patients saw double for a day after his little stroke. Others said that, with the little stroke, they had lost some of their memory, or they had developed trouble swallowing; for a few weeks food went down the wrong way; or for half an hour after the woozy spell, the person had trouble talking. Another patient's little stroke caused pain to shoot into his abdomen, and few got a burning tongue. When an elderly person has had a loss of a good feeling of balance for two or three years after a little stroke, there is no very good treatment for him that I know of.

Someone asks if medical statistics show any relation between marriage and the span of life. Yes; it is well known to insurance statisticians that the married man on the average lives considerably longer than does a bachelor; and a little longer than does a widower. It is hard to say just why this is, but it is supposed that the married man lives a more comfortable and more sheltered life, and he is less exposed to the dangers of alcoholism and sexual promiscuity.

Beware Beautiful Pampas

Pampas Grass looks shabby at this time of year. The tattered, wind torn plumes have lost the elegance and grace of last fall and the green of the older leaves has faded.

Jack

An afternoon's work on the plant will considerably lessen its shabbiness, but a word of warning to those unaware of its deceiving nature.

The beautiful pampas will let you thrust a hand into its foliage without objection, then as the hand is withdrawn a thousand barbs, which edge the leaves like the teeth on a saw, will tear at clothing and skin. In many ways the pampas is worse than the blackberries, for the saw-like leaf edges cut deep and leave the hands, face and neck sore for many days.

Good protective clothing is the only answer, and I have an idea a deep-sea diving suit, complete with helmet, would be ideal.

The leaves which are straw colored can be removed with a sharp pull, for they break away at a kind of joint near the base.

Removing all the faded leaves gives a better view into the centre of the clump and makes it easier to cut off the old plumes. These should be severed with the secateurs as low as possible, and care must be taken when burning because the flames rush through the flower heads at an amazing speed.

Low down in the centre of the clump will be found a mass of curls which look like shavings from a woodworking shop. These are the dried up ends from which old leaves have been pulled.

Some can be removed by hand, but the approved method is to burn them with a quick fire started with newspaper. If the fire burns quickly and is then quenched the plant is not harmed.

Be sure the old plumes are removed before burning into the base, and provide protection to plants close by so that the heat does not sear them nor cause premature opening of buds.

This Was All Oak Bay Needed

Plunging over Victoria High line early in first half, Frank Baylis gives Oak Bay lead in opening game of annual Howard Russell Cup rugby series as Vic High players arrive too late to prevent score. Try was all Bays needed to chalk up 3-0 win although they had to stage strong defensive display in second half to hold lead. Second game of best-of-three series is scheduled Wednesday.

MIAMI BEACH—Beatings have welled the glad face of the old champion. The features are bloated and Beau Jack wears specs but he couldn't find—locate an enemy with a telescope. He walks with a slight limp, as if he were always trudging through deep sand. But his great heart is unscarred.

The thieves of the fight racket robbed him but they could not steal his innocence. Adversity hasn't corrupted his joyous disposition. At the beginning, Beau Jack was shoe-shine boy in a country club in Augusta, Ga. Now, at 37, the father of 11 children, he is the bootblack in the barber shop of the Fontainebleau Hotel.

They trimmed him out of a lot of money because he fought 27 main events in Madison Square Garden and made more in that building than any other pug before or after his lucrative time. But Beau Jack doesn't count his lost fortune or complain about the circumstances of his impoverishment.

This was near the end of it. We were sitting in one of the stalls in Stillman's Gym where the fighters hang their clothes. I suggested that he go to the district attorney and explain what had happened to his wealth.

"God take care of that," said Beau Jack. "He want you poor, you be poor. He know what they do to me. He know all about it. You can't tell God nothing he don't know."

He stood there in his white uniform and described how wonderful people are.

"My friends remember me," said Beau Jack. "Mr. Billy Conn telephone me and say to me 'Beau Jack, you come right up here.' I go to see Mr. Billy Conn and he say 'No shine, Beau Jack, sit down and eat.' He gave me $10 and he don't want no shine."

The right leg buckled and Beau Jack landed on his rump and his legs out in front of him. He leaned forward and tried to push the broken bones of his knee in place with his gloves. The referee was counting and Beau Jack got up, clumsily, the fractured knee stiff and unbending. He stood there, hopping on one leg, and tried to push the referee aside so he could get to Janiro. The referee stopped it and they carried Beau Jack out on a stretcher.

Sometimes Beau Jack made as much as $40,000 in less than an hour of fighting. Now he gets it in dimes and quarters.

"All that money never crosses my mind," said the old lightweight champion. "I never seen all that money. I never counted it with my hands. I got a good job here. I got a good boss, a fine man."

He still dragged the leg when they put him in with Ike Williams in Philadelphia. The right hand sent Beau Jack into a corner. He began to slump and grabbed the top ropes with his arms shoulder-high and extended as far as they could go in the classic posture of crucifixion.

The first combination Williams hit him with was to the head and then he shifted to the body. He backed away, expecting Beau Jack to fall but he seemed to be impaled on the ring post of the corner. Again Williams struck him with the hook and the right and dropped down to the belly. Williams measured him for the right hand but those dead eyes in the lacerated face caused him to freeze as if stricken with the paralysis of mercy.

"Stop it," Williams said to the referee. "You want me to kill him?"

The referee took Williams' advice but Beau Jack couldn't be consoled in the dressing room. He thought the referee should have waited until he fell to count him out.

The old man is educating his son in the cruel occupation. "I tell him don't be no fighter," explained Beau Jack. "It's too tough for anyone. But he wants to be a fighter, so I'm teaching him."

The old champion picked up his box and sat on it before a patron and the brushes moved with a quick rhythm suggesting the sound of a light bag. Beau Jack's a good bootblack. But he'll never shine my shoes.

Former Champions Open With Victories

BRANDON (CP)—Two former champions won opening round games as the western Canada ladies curling championships started here Monday night.

RACING BILL GETS SUPPORT

The bill to establish a racing commission in B.C. "will produce an even greater sense of confidence and satisfaction in the people supporting the sport," Attorney General Robert Bonner said in the House Monday.

CCF spokesman Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East) said his party would support the bill. It was given second reading. He hoped the three-man commission would be in operation before the 1959 racing season because the sport needs "cleaning up."

Mrs. Janet Perkin of Regina, who won in the first western women's title in 1953, edged Mrs. Isabel Ketchen of Flin Flon, Man., 10-8, and Mrs. Dorothy Thompson of Edmonton, the 1954 titlist, trounced Mrs. Marge Tegtart of Salmon Arm, B.C., 18-4.

The six-game, double round-robin series continued today with morning and afternoon rounds. Two rounds also will be played Wednesday and the final is slated for Thursday morning.

British Columbia, which has won the title the past three years, tried to play a running game against the Edmonton rink but were missing badly. Mrs. Tegtart's rink never solved its problems and Alberta kept piling in the rocks.

Early Score Stands Up; Bays Grab Rugby Lead

By GARRIE McNAUGHTON

Oak Bay High School's rugby squad scored a tight 3-0 victory over Victoria High in the first game of a best-of-three series for the Howard Russell Cup at Carnarvon Park Monday.

Frank Baylis scored the winning try early in the first half.

Spurred by the early tally, Oak Bay dominated the play to half time with a powerful running display.

The Bays' defensive ability also stood the test Monday, as they managed to stem the tide and hold their opponents scoreless when the Vics took charge in the second half.

"The boys were playing too close to the touchline," said Vic High coach Jim Hill. "I think we might have tied it up in the second half if they had played closer to the centre of the field. We lost a lot of time with the ball going out of touch."

VICS CONFIDENT

But the Vics are still confident that they can force the playoff to three games and grab the cup, emblematic of city high school rugby supremacy.

"Vic High's far from beaten," commented Oak Bay coach Don Oliver. "This game could have gone either way. Both clubs missed some good chances, but I think we can wind it up Wednesday."

Originally scheduled for the Vic High pitch, Monday's opener had to be shifted to Carnarvon Park because of the soggy condition of the Fernwood field.

If ground conditions permit, the second clash of the playoff will be at Vic High Wednesday.

LIONS IN GOOD HANDS

'What's Happened?' Asks Annis

The B.C. Lions are in good hands with 28-year-old coach Wayne Robinson at the helm was the opinion expressed by former Lion coach Annis Stukus of Vancouver Monday night.

"Robinson is a good coach and can sell football," Stuke added.

Staying with the Lions, Stuke opined that much-publicized Randy Duncan, the boy wonder of U.S. College football, might have a rough time trying to displace Al Dorrow as first-string Leo signal-caller.

"Dorow just has to be a genius," Stuke said. "Anybody who can step in at midseason and run a losing team to a three-game win streak has to be."

Now a Vancouver sports writer, Stukus was in Victoria to speak at a rally-dinner in behalf of the newly-formed Victoria Canadian Football Club.

He said he believed a first-class intermediate team could well be the lever to pry the lid-off wilting sports interest in Victoria.

"Victoria was once one of the top sports towns in Canada," he said. "What's happened anyway?"

"Where once there used to be championship teams, there is now nothing."

The Victoria Football Club, union of last year's Oak Bay Drakes and Mayo Vampires teams, is hoping to compete next season in a league with Navy, Surrey Rams and North Shore Wildcats.

Although there is still some doubt whether or not Navy is willing to join the loop next season, Victoria president Harold Johnston is planning a trip to Vancouver to see what can be done about forming the proposed league.

Czechs Go Ahead While Macs Rest

Crucial Clash With Russia Set Wednesday

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (UPI)—Czechoslovakia grabbed the lead from Canada today in the world amateur hockey championships by beating Finland, 8-2.

The Canadians, who were leading on their 6-0 goal average after yesterday's first round of the playoffs, had a day off today. They were joined today by professional star Maurice (Rocket) Richard, who will root for the Belleville McFarlands in their game against Russia tomorrow.

The Montreal Canadiens' star arrived today after a flight from Montreal via New York and Paris. The injured right winger made the trip as a special guest of the Czech Ice Hockey Federation as a goodwill ambassador of the sport.

Richard, 37, and the oldest active player in the National Hockey League, is the greatest all-time scorer in the National Hockey League.

STILL HOPING

The Rocket is presently sidelined with a broken leg, but still hopes to get back in action in time for the Stanley Cup playoffs. The easy victory over the Finns made the Czechs the first team in the six-team final to win two games.

Playing later today were Sweden and the U.S. Both lost their opening round games yesterday.

Canada and Russia rested today, preparing for their clash tomorrow. Russia beat the U.S., 5-1, yesterday, and the McFarlands slammed the Finns, 6-0.

The Russians and the Canadians staged light workouts this morning, followed by rest. Canadian manager Drury Denyes was confident for tomorrow's game, although the Canadians should have beaten the Finns by a higher score.

"The team is in good shape," he said, "and nobody is on the sick list."

CZECHS IMPRESS

"It is true that we did not play too well against the Finns but there wasn't any need to."

Members of the team visited the Czech Swedish game last night and returned quite impressed by the Czechs.

"They played much better than two nights ago when we beat them," said coach Billy Reay. "They might well prove to be as strong opponents as the Russians when we play them again next Sunday."

The Americans were outplayed and outskated by the Russians yesterday, but coach Marsh Ryman of Minneapolis said that "we won't go on losing."

CHANGES PLANNED

"The Swedes are tough," he added after watching the Czech Swedish game, "but not unbeatable, as the Czechs have shown. We can be tough, too."

Ryman said he will make some changes in the team—but announce them only just before the game starts. It was likely that Bob Dupuis of Allston, Mass., will return to the team to strengthen its defence.

He has been idled by assorted injuries, including bad shoulders and a strained ligament.

While the Czechs played the Finns, western visitors once again heard the famous Prague roar "do toho" (go ahead) with which the hockey-loving Czechs encourage their favorites.

Pickel Keeps C-Fun In Battle for Crown

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver C-FUN, paced by centre Bob Pickel who scored 24 points before fouling out with a minute left, stayed alive in the British Columbia Senior A men's basketball final Monday night, defeating Alberni Athletics 57-48 in the fifth game of the best-of-seven series.

Alberni, which won the first three games, now leads 3-2 in the series. Next game is scheduled in Alberni Friday.

The Vancouver squad took an early lead and was five points ahead of the A's at the end of the first quarter. Alberni tied the score 27-27 by the half.

Alberni—Larson (9), Grisdale (9), Stephens (8), Brinham (8), A. Brown (6), Gallois (4), Pantou (3), Speidel (1), Samarin (Total 48).

Vancouver—Pickel (24), Keller (12), Olausson (10), Wilde (7), Nyhaug (2), Ramsay (2), Steen, M. Brown (Total 57).

THIRD OVERTIME TIE IN OKANAGAN PLAYOFF

VERNON, B.C. (CP)—Vernon Canadians and Kelowna Packers battled to their third overtime tie in four games Monday night, coming out even at 6-6 in the fourth game of the Okanagan Senior Hockey League final.

Packers lead the best-of-seven series 1-0 on the basis of a victory in the third game after two earlier overtime draws.

Some 1,400 fans here saw Vernon pull goalie Hal Gordon in favor of an extra attacker to tie the game with 27 seconds left.

Cougars Could Ease Worries

Penticton sports fans will be getting a taste of Western Hockey League action Friday night when Spokane Spokes and New Westminster Royals square off for a four-point game there.

The game was transferred to Penticton when Spokane ice became unavailable to the Spokes last week.

The game will draw a lot of interest from the rest of the league, as well, with Victoria Cougars holding front-row seats for the spectacle.

Flyers and Cougars are tightly bound in a battle for the third Coast Division playoff spot and a win by Spokane in Penticton could leave the two teams tied in third place.

Much of the sting could be taken out of such a win Wednesday when the two teams meet in Memorial Arena.

A Cougar win would put them four points up on the Spokes.

One particular Flyer the Cougars will be watching closely will be winger Max Meklik.

NEAR RECORD

Meklik is challenging for the 23-game record of Winnipeg Warrior Barrie Ross, having picked up at least one point in each of his last 22 consecutive league games.

Ross set the record earlier in the season.

Another race of intense interest has boiled up in both Coast and Prairie Divisions, with the emergence of two 100-point scorers for the first time in WHL history.

Eddie Dorohoy of Calgary has scored 104 points on 34 goals and 70 assists and Guyle Fielder of Seattle has tallied 101 points on 20 goals and 81 assists.

A third member may soon join this select group in Dorohoy's winger Lou Jankowski, currently with 92 points. He has five remaining games to reach the mark.

VIKING VIEWS

By IAN SMITH

Dick Sparks and Don Farquhar have been warming up for the Vic College Viking golf championship at Gorge Vale on Sunday.

Sparks and Farquhar successfully defended the school golf buttons at Gorge Vale Sunday, stopping Barry Saunders and Hank Lum, 5 and 4.

Sparks, in particular, found the course to his liking, touring the front nine only four strokes over par, despite the fact that he took three double bogeys in the nine holes.

If he erases some of the mistakes that cost him the double bogeys, he should be tough to beat on Sunday.

However, at least 20 others will be doing their best, including his doubles partner, and the former button holders, John Reid and Blair McLean.

Entries have been received from Farquhar, Sparks, McLean, Reid, Bill Sanderson, Lloyd Evans, Bill Wansborough, Clayton Kirby, Saunders, John Whittaker, Ray Latta, Dick Freeman, Dick Tripp, Clint Bradshaw, Colin Nicholson, Bob Mills, Keith Webb, Bill Kirby, Bob Jeeves, Lum and Dan Paterson.

Tea-off time is 12.30 p.m.

The Viking rugby team continues to chalk up shutouts. On Thursday, and Saturday they shut out Royal Roads and University of British Columbia Tomahawks, both by scores of 24-0.

Derek Hood led scorers in both games, scoring 12 points in each contest on a try, a penalty kick and three converts. Roi Fieldwalker scored one try and Craig Andrews added two in the Thursday game. On Saturday Jon Benson and Russ Chambers each scored a try, while Jere Mitchell kicked a field goal.

If it isn't one thing, it's another. College Viking soccer team is running into more troubles than enough in its attempt to win the Inter-Collegiate League championship.

On February 25 the Vikings went happily into the field in the belief that: (a) They would play Royal Roads; (b) it was the final league game of the year; and (c) if they won it they would be league champions.

But Royal Roads couldn't field a team and the game was postponed a week. So last Wednesday the Vikings again got set to play, with the same three thoughts in mind.

Play they did, and win they did, 5-2—but then they found out that it wasn't the final league game of the year, and that they hadn't yet won the championship.

Cause of the trouble was a postponed game with Pacific Naval Laboratories. Since most of the PNL team is now unavailable to play, it was assumed that the game would be defaulted.

The Labmen, however, are attempting to form a pickup

estate

Perhaps you would be surprised to know that the majority of estates handled by Montreal Trust Company last year were for people of moderate means.

We are particularly proud of this fact, because it demonstrates our ability to render a service to the average citizen, men who would not be considered wealthy, but who wish to make efficient use of their resources.

We are confident that you will be pleasantly impressed with the ability of our Trust Officers to plan for the administration of a medium size estate and, in doing so, make the best use of every dollar.

A telephone call will arrange an appointment, with no obligation to you.

Pils Get Spot Against Tars

Coy Cup Hockey Semifinal
Starts at Arena Tonight

Vancouver Pilseners hammered their way into the semifinal round of the B.C. intermediate hockey playoffs Monday night with an 8-4 win over Chilliwack Loggers.

Tonight they meet Victoria Navy at Memorial Arena in the best-of-five semifinal opener, starting at 8.30 p.m.

Pilseners will be short one player though, when they take the ice following an "indefinite" suspension to John Halley by Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey Association president Ivan Temple of Victoria.

TO BE REVIEWED

The "indefinite" tag was hung on the suspension by Temple, because the ruling has to be reviewed by BCHA president Leo Atwell before being confirmed.

Halley was set down Sunday when it was charged he "clipped" the referee following an argument over a penalty assessed him in the playoff game in Chilliwack.

Navy earned the playoff berth with an upset Island final win over Nanaimo Clippers in their best-of-five series.

Notable were adjudicator Anne Mossman's remarks concerning the exceptionally high standard represented, and her repeated commendation of voices, and enunciation.

Official opening of the festival Monday night at S. J. Willis Junior High School, was preceded by presentation of two plays at Glanford Elementary School in the afternoon.

HOSTS SCORE
The best school scored highly with the adjudicator in its presentation of an iminary incident in the life of the Spanish painter, Murillo.

"The Day is Bright," by Norman Myrick. Presented by Glanford Elementary School.
Murillo Bill Goff
The Duchess Marlene Treloar
Francisco Bruce Thomson
Bernardo Brian Rowbottom
Ricardo Tommy Maxwell
Rosita Linda Edge
Carmen Judy Keen
Sebastian Larry McBride
Carrie Jimmy Thomas
Director: H. F. Jarvis.

This was a very competent production, Miss Mossman commented. Timing was excellent and the characters were all clearly established and projected. The set had been utterly simple and wholly effective, she said.

She was enthusiastic over the performance of Bill Goff who had a difficult assignment and did it "awfully well"; and over the small perfection of Marlene Treloar's tiny part. Brian Rowbottom and Larry McBride were also particularly noted.

"The Duke of the Rock," by Emilie Sarter. Presented by Brentwood Elementary School.

agers: Sidney Tyler, Chris Butler.

The eight princesses in this play were extremely well delineated according to their names, said Miss Mossman. Failure to project sufficiently was the only major flaw in a colorful production.

Student actors of high school age took the stage for the opening Monday night. The hosts, S. J. Willis, began with a charming Chinese fantasy.

"The Mystery of the Ming Tree," by Robert and Lillian Masters. Presented by S. J. Willis Junior High School.

Director: Christine F. M. MacNab.
Assistant: Bryan Mee.

Miss Mossman spoke enthusiastically in praise of the beautiful speech of Linda Parfitt and also the good enunciation of Colleen Gibson. General tempo had been too slow and lack of lighting on the faces masked expression, she noted.

PLEASURE TO WATCH
Nevertheless the production was properly stylized and stage pictures were consistently good. Ronnie Hatch was termed an excellent actor and especially commended also were Tim Vernon, Penny Espley, Joan Turner and Lynda Rusk.

The adjudicator concluded by congratulating the director, saying the play had been a pleasure to watch.

"Hamlet," Act III, Scene I, by William Shakespeare. Presented by St. Margaret School.
Hamlet Jacqueline Thurston
Ophelia Jeannie Belcher
Director: Mrs. Ann Cavendish-Kundy.
Stage Manager: Elizabeth Wells.

This was difficult to judge because it could not be termed a play, having no beginning, no climax, no end. The stage had been too dark but nevertheless the excerpt was beautifully done, the phrasing good, voices outstanding. Miss Mossman particularly commended Jeannie Belcher for a voice of lovely quality and clear enunciation.

"Smoke in the Valley," by R. F. Deiderfeld. Presented by Mount Newton Junior-Senior High School.
Elaine Vessey Tisha Richard
Nagpie Louise Friesberg
Sophie Beth Haugen
Malcolm Brent Dennis Thomas
Sir Henry Vessey Ron Macham
Director: Mrs. M. Phillips.
Stage Manager: Ricky Tyre.

Ron Macham, from the moment of his entrance, had really given the play a lift and pulled it together, commented Miss Mossman. She felt that it was a good script but had been too static in presentation and movement generally lacked motivation.

Tonight at Oak Bay Junior High School, St. Margaret's, Oak Bay Senior High and Mount Douglas High will present plays with the accent on comedy.

COLLEGE FEES HIKED TO EQUAL UBC RATE

Victoria College tuition fees were raised by $100 Monday night to keep pace with a recent increase at the University of B.C.

New scale will be $335 starting this fall. Summer School fees also will be raised by $5 per unit, increasing the cost of a three-unit course to $61.

The step, predicted after the provincial government brought in estimates $105,000 short of the college's request for assistance, was taken by the Victoria College council to prevent competition in fees between the two affiliated institutions.

All MLAs Back Student Loans

The B.C. legislature Monday gave unanimous assent to establishment of a $2,000,000 student aid loan fund for UBC and Victoria College—but CCF members said it still fell far short of being perfect.

The bill was given second reading.

Tony Gargrave (CCF-Mackenzie) opposed the plan because he felt interest rates, which must be charged by the university, would have to be 4½ to 5 per cent.

Under the scheme, the university would borrow the money and the government would guarantee the university bond issue. "The interest one must pay on the bond market is high," he said.

The government should have made the money available at a low rate of interest, added Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook).

John Squire (CCF-Alberni) said if the university is going to borrow the money the student will have to pay interest from the date of the loan. But even the credit union sponsored by logging industry workers in his riding was putting up money for student loans on which no interest was payable until the student's education was complete.

"If a group of workers can do this the government should have enough brains to do it," he said.

Dan Campbell (SC-Comox) said he felt there would be few students who would have to borrow more than $200 or $300 a year. He felt the university would get a favorable bond rate.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said the student loans are part of a program which is the envy of every other province in Canada. "We've set a pattern for the federal government and challenge them to match it."

A stretch of Vancouver Island Highway is being considered as a testing ground for the proposed 60-mile-per-hour speed limit. Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi said in an interview Monday.

He promised that before final decision is made to enact a new speed limit, try-out sections will be named in several parts of the province, one such area being on Vancouver Island. He wouldn't pinpoint the zone.

Raising the speed limit to 60 in areas of good roads has been hinted recently by both the highways minister and Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Mr. Gagliardi said B.C.'s new highways are being designed for safe use at 60 and over and today's cars are also engineered for safe use at higher speeds than are now allowed.

The minister has been an advocate of higher speed limits for years. He has been ticketed three times for speeding, on two occasions losing his licence temporarily as a result.

JOHNSON'S LIFE PENSION GOES QUIETLY

There was no discussion and no opposition Monday when the B.C. legislature gave second reading to a bill which proposes a $5,000 lifetime pension to former coalition premier Byron I. Johnson.

When the bill was introduced there were protests from Mr. Johnson's family, and it was suggested the former premier, now ailing, might be offended.

Premier Bennett noted that Mr. Johnson was injured while in government service and never had recovered completely. There need never be another such bill because after Mr. Johnson left office in 1952 a pension plan was passed assuring a retirement income for former members of the legislature.

The premier said he took pleasure in presenting the bill.

Formula Stabilized

A minor amendment to the Equalization of Assessments Act was introduced in the legislature Monday.

It gives the cabinet a method of preventing assessed values from climbing with any inflation of actual real estate by setting a base-year for computing assessments. The basis now used is 60 per cent of 1953 values, but this was not spelled out in the act.

A recent New Westminster court case was won against the government on this account. The amendment fills the loophole.

Finance department spokesmen said the amendment will have little, if any effect on B.C. property owners other than to "stabilize" assessments.

PGE's Closed Books Under Fire From CCF

Government refusal to open current accounts of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and other government agencies to perusal by members of the legislature was the main reason for CCF opposition Monday to extending PGE borrowing powers.

Bill number eight which increases PGE borrowing authority from $110,000,000 to $120,000,000 was given second reading despite the opposition.

Gordon Dowding (CCF-Burnaby) objected to the act because the people don't know how the money is spent.

"There is no window through which they can see how their money is being used. The government shakes its head whenever we inquire into this," he said.

P. A. Gibbs (Lib-Oak Bay) said, according to the last balance sheet, the PGE had greater assets than liabilities and there was nothing to show why the line requires $10,000,000. If, as the premier said, the line would earn $1,000,000 this year, he wouldn't need to borrow so much.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters)—Siu Mith, a leader of Malaya's dwindling band of Communist terrorists, has been killed by British troops, it was announced Monday.

'Save-the-Gallery' Bid

Intermunicipal committee Monday recommended that the four Greater Victoria municipalities help take up the slack in the Art Gallery's 1959 budget by sharing a $7,500 contribution.

The gallery faces a $12,500 deficit this year, following construction of the centennial wing. Higher taxes on the improved property and the newly-opened opportunity to bring in first-class art shows further swell the budget.

Committee members agreed quickly that help should be given, but ran into difficulty on determining "the formula for sharing the cost."

Reeve-George Chatterton of Saanich unsuccessfully opposed the recommendation to set each municipality's share on a per capita basis.

He said that it did not take into account ability to pay. "It's a most worthy project but our municipality isn't in a position to pay for everything that is worthy," he said.

The reeve suggested splitting the shares on a per capita and assessment basis.

"Oh, no, I can't go along with that," said Mayor Percy Scurrell. "You want to load us up on a 50 per cent assessment basis because our area is a high assessment area. We just can't afford that burden all the time."

Saanich Coun. Charles Nelles said his municipality had a responsibility to pay its fair share because Saanich residents were heavy users of the gallery's facilities.

Reeve Chatterton gave in after it was pointed out that the per capita formula would cost Saanich only 2 per cent more than his suggestion.

The committee's recommendation of sharing the cost on a per capita basis, if accepted by the four councils, will divide the $7,500: Victoria, 46.4 per cent; Saanich, 32.3 per cent; Oak Bay, 12.5 per cent, and Esquimalt, 8.8 per cent.

New Library Plan Scrapped After 4-Year Row on Costs

More than four years of controversy over a new library agreement was washed out by intermunicipal committee Monday within 20 minutes.

The four municipalities agreed to retain the present year-to-year arrangement which allows Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt to use the Victoria Public Library for an annual fee.

Thrown out was a proposal which would have committed them to a long-term contract for sharing costs in return for voting powers on the library board.

Reeve W. A. C. Wurtele, expressing determined opposition to any long-term commitments, said Esquimalt was "quite happy" to continue paying for the service without a vote on the board.

"HAPHAZARD"

Mayor Percy Scurrell, in an effort to effect a compromise that would have given Saanich its long-sought vote on the board, suggested an arrangement under which some could continue the present agreement while others could sign the long-term contract.

But Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch objected that this would be a "haphazard arrangement."

Reeve George Chatterton of Saanich, observing that there appeared no alternative, agreed to "scrapping the whole proposal" and the committee voted to continue the library arrangement "as is."

St. Joseph's Fund Drive Aid Studied

Intermunicipal committee will study a proposal that Greater Victoria municipalities agree to assist the St. Joseph's Hospital plans for future expansion and back it up with token payments this year.

The committee agreed Monday to study the proposal at its June meeting. Delay was scheduled to avoid any conflict with the Royal Jubilee Hospital's building fund drive which opens this month.

Esquimalt Coun. K. G. Sammon, who proposed that the municipalities indicate they will help St. Joseph's so that it could start with its plans, said it "would be tragic" if there was any suggestion of discrimination between the two hospitals.

The municipalities are at present committed to pay annual sums until 1962 to Royal Jubilee Hospital for its proposed wing.

Humane Slaughter Laws Backed

Reeve George Chatterton said Monday he will ask the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee to support a campaign of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals for more humane slaughter laws in abattoirs.

The issue was raised by Coun. Leslie Passmore at a Saanich council meeting.

Coun. Passmore said Canada is one of the few civilized countries without humane slaughter laws.

"England introduced humane slaughter laws as far back as 30 years ago," he said. "Other European countries have done the same."

He asked council to urge Defence Minister Pearkes to sponsor such a law.

Reeve Chatterton felt that all the Greater Victoria municipalities should be asked to support the campaign.

Last of Pioneer Pauline Family Dies at Age 85

Last surviving member of the pioneer Pauline family, Sarah Short, 2955 Albina, died Monday in Royal Jubilee Hospital. She was 85.

Mrs. Short came to Victoria in 1888 and is survived by four sons: Henry and Jack (famed race broadcaster) of Vancouver, and Joseph and Edward of Victoria.

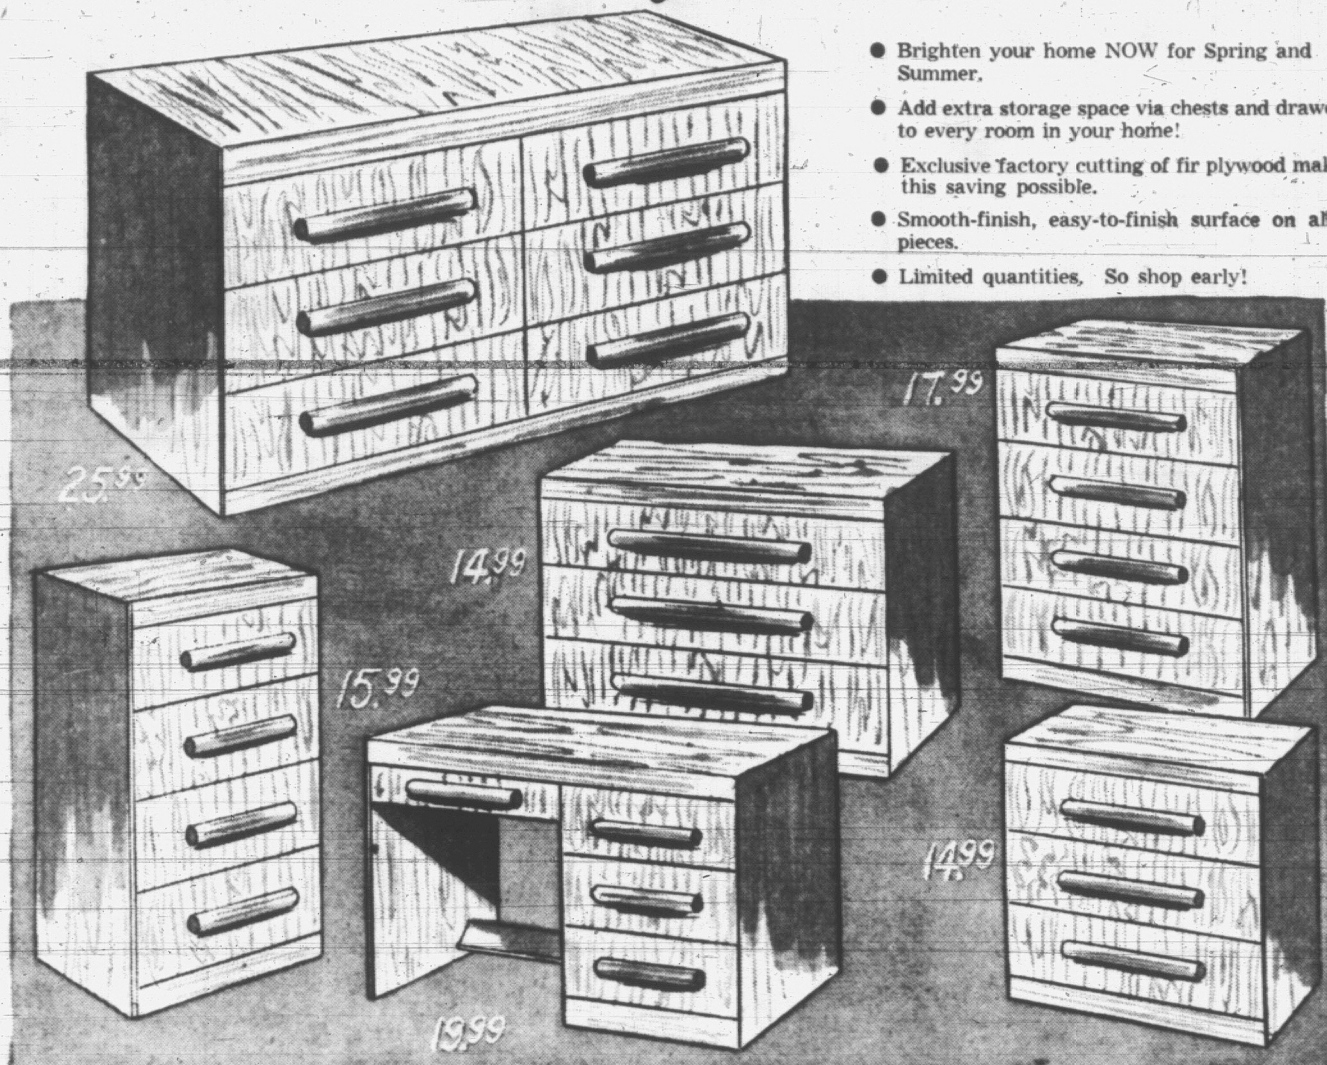

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in Hayward's Funeral Chapel, followed by interment in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Victoria Daily Times Silhouette Contest

No. 3

Silhouette Contest Rules

1. The Silhouette Contest is simple and easy to work. It consists of 60 silhouette drawings of widely known persons and 120 pictures. All you have to do is identify the silhouettes, not by name, but by pairing them with pictures of the people you think are portrayed on the silhouettes. Each person shown in silhouette will be shown by picture but not necessarily on the same day. In addition there will be 60 pictures of other persons who will not be shown in silhouette drawings. These you will have 120 pictures from which to make your 60 selections to go with the 60 silhouettes. Keep the 60 left over pictures. They will be needed for the final Silhouette Scramble.

2. The contest starts on Saturday, March 7, 1959. Each day for 60 days one silhouette and two pictures will be printed. After you have paired a silhouette with a picture, paste or in some way fasten the matching pair on a single sheet of paper. All 60 sheets are to be fastened together in order and each sheet should bear your name.

3. The Times will award $250 in cash prizes to the winners. There are no entry fees. The prizes are:
1. $100
2. $100
3. $50
and four prizes of $25 each.

4. The contest is open to all residents of Vancouver Island with the exception of employees of the Times and Victoria Press Ltd. and members of their families. Not more than one prize will be awarded in any one immediate family.

5. The final silhouette and pictures will appear on Saturday, March 16, and with this set will appear a master score sheet on which you must enter the numbers of your silhouette-picture combinations. Do not send in your entries until all silhouettes and pictures have been published.

6. The contestant getting the greatest number of the 60 regular silhouettes correctly entered is automatically the winner of the first prize. Second highest score gets second prize, and so on.

7. A Silhouette Scramble will be published with Silhouette No. 60. This will consist of a number of silhouettes which are to be identified from the 60 pictures, left over from the regular contest. This Silhouette Scramble will be used by the judges ONLY in case of ties. If the contest is the regular contest, then those contestants making the best scores in the Silhouette Scramble will be declared winners.

8. Address entries to Silhouette Contest, Victoria Daily Times, 2631 Douglas Street, Victoria. All entries must be postmarked not later than Monday, May 25. Entries must be sent with first class postage fully paid, since The Times cannot be responsible for entries delayed because of improper address or insufficient postage, or for any other reasons not received at The Times in due time.

9. By entering the contest, the participant agrees to accept the decision of the judges as final.

'Compromise' Metro Government Seen in Intermunicipal Group

By JOHN MIKA

Greater Victoria appears to be groping slowly but steadily toward a secondary level of civic government that hurdles arbitrary municipal boundaries.

Latest development in the evolution occurred Monday when intermunicipal committee formally established two sub-committees to deal with industrial development and transportation problems on a Greater Victoria basis.

This ad hoc growth, necessary to meet common problems with common action, seems to be developing along informal lines towards a semi-metropolitan government.

Chief difference between the Greater Victoria pattern and development in other metro regions is an "escape clause" which allows any municipality to set its own course without reference to intermunicipal committee.

But the difference is academic, to some extent.

Although intermunicipal committee only can "recommend" action to the four municipalities, those recommendations are made by the mayor and three reeves as well as senior members of the four councils.

Inevitably, the "recommendations" carry sufficient weight to pass in each council, with rare exceptions.

More and more, since the later municipal committee was established on a formal basis a year ago, the various councils have referred broad, and sometimes narrow, problems to this committee.

As a result, more than just a "meeting of minds" frequently occurs in the committee. Decisions are made there that can't be made by any one municipality with the same ease.

The status of the committee

is steadily rising with some councillors, who are increasingly willing to send difficult area-wide problems "up above" for some solution.

The committee's role as a generator for new proposals, as well as a channel for solving old problems, also is advancing.

This was evidenced by the decision to set up a standing committee on industrial development which Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood said was needed by "the area as a whole."

The industrial development sub-committee, significantly, will report to the intermunicipal committee, and at every meeting, instead of to the various councils.

One of its first jobs will be to decide whether an industrial commissioner should be hired to analyze the industrial potential here and make sure that new industries are informed that locating here has many advantages.

Creation of such an office, if made, would require a budget. The precedent was set last year when intermunicipal committee was given a budget for centennial year purposes.

If the Capital Region Planning Board's master plan is not adopted, as anticipated, due to administrative problems intermunicipal committee can expect to be called upon for more work.

All the municipalities have expressed satisfaction with the actual recommendations in the master plan. But, if the plan isn't adopted, CPRB will not be able to administer it.

Since the municipalities want to follow the development outline in the plan, intermunicipal committee is the logical alternative body to act as a sort of co-ordinating agency for implementing the recommendations.

If this happens, then the committee will have undertaken another important duty of government—planning for the future as well as contending with the present.

Ultimately, if the pattern continues to develop, the existing multiplicity of joint boards, committees and commissions logically could be put under the wing of intermunicipal committee.

The final step, many years hence, would be to give intermunicipal committee power to order as well as recommend, in certain fields.

PORT ALBERNI MAYOR CHARGES

'Officials Run Pleasure Boat'

Mayor Loran Jordon of Port Alberni Monday charged the Harbor Commission with using its year-old $16,000 boat as a pleasure craft and declared he could prove it.

In a fiery address to council, he said fishermen complained that they could run their boats on the rocks and get no help from the commission as far as it was concerned.

Speaking to the press table, Mayor Jordon said: "In my opinion the harbor commissioner's boat is used for nothing more than a pleasure craft. I can prove this, and the press can quote me."

To back up his charges, the mayor said he would get the operators of one or two fishing boats to address council and put the whole thing before the public.

In an interview today, he stuck to his charges and commented further that a friend of his who operated a fishing boat told him "the harbor boat should be used for cleaning deadheads out of the harbor and not for running up and down the canal."

The friend, who Jordon did not name, was quoted as "very bitter" in his complaint about the commission and use of its boat.

Ted Vrooman, secretary for the commission, said the mayor's charges were "too ridiculous to answer," and said that he would prefer not to give a reply at this time.

"What's the matter with the man? Why should he say a ridiculous thing like that?" he said.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Saanich council has referred to the town planning commission for consideration an application of the Saanich Broadcasting Company for permission to erect a transmitter at Swan Lake.

Ellison Queale, president of the new company which plans to operate a "dawn to dusk, good music" station, said work on the transmitter will start as soon as the site has been approved by the commission.

He said the company had not yet chosen a site for its offices.

A 30-minute color film, "Trading in Real Estate," will be shown to members of the Real Estate Board of Victoria at their monthly luncheon Wednesday in the Empress Hotel.

Produced by a Detroit realty firm, the film covers every aspect of the real estate business.

Quebec CCF Chief To Speak Sunday

Michel Chartrand, CCF leader in Quebec, will address a public meeting Sunday at 8 p.m. in the CCF Hall, Douglas Street.

His talk is expected to deal with labor matters.

Mr. Chartrand starts a Western Canadian speaking tour in Vancouver Saturday.

SAANICH AREA PROBES MERGER

'Join Oak Bay' Bid Gains

A Saanich movement to unite Ten Mile Point, Gordon Head, and Sherwood Oaks districts with Oak Bay gained momentum at a Cadboro Bay ratepayers meeting Monday.

Members in a show of hands were almost all in favor of amalgamating the districts with Oak Bay.

However, they decided against formally voting on the issue until their executive had studied the pros and cons of a merger.

If the report favors a merger of the two districts, the association will ask Saanich council to hold a plebiscite on the issue.

The meeting held at St. George's Hall was attended by more than 100 ratepayers.

The meeting elected F. J. Leedham, 2515 Arbutus, as president; Robert Fleming, vice-president, and D. Forrest, secretary.

SPRING'S ATTRACTIONS VARY

Knuckling down to serious spring-time marble game is made a little difficult by another popular spring attraction, the fairer sex. So Gary

Scurrah Unmoved On Master Plan

Mayor Percy Scurrah today said he will stand by his opposition to adoption of the Capital Region Planning Board's master plan despite a personal attack by the board's chairman.

"That just illustrates what I'm objecting to—a non-elected board from the outside municipalities dictating to the elected representatives," said the mayor.

He was referring to remarks by CPRB chairman F. W. Nicolls Monday night to a Community Planning Association of Canada-sponsored meeting on the master plan.

Mr. Nicoll said the only objection came from Mayor Scurrah, who is opposed because, once the plan is adopted, any member municipality could be prevented from altering the proposed development of its area.

'COMMENT SILLY'

"I think his comments are... well, silly is the right word," Mr. Nicolls told some 100 persons at the meeting.

"If the CPAC is going to do an educational program around here, then they should take Mayor Scurrah as their No. 1 pupil," he said.

He then told a joke, which had the word "stupidity" in its punchline, and commented, "Well, that fits in with the opinion I have of the mayor."

Retorted Mayor Scurrah:

Q. What are the financial limits a war veteran can have before he applies for the "burned out" pension?—M.T.

A. A married man can have $2,000 in negotiable assets, and a single man, $1,000. Apart from this a home assessed to the value of $8,000 is allowable. A married man can apply for the pension if his income is less than $145 a month; a single man if income is less than $90.

Q. How does Canada compare in size with Russia?—J. I. A. Canada is the world's second largest country. We have 3,845,774 square miles compared with Russia's 8,598,701 square miles.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times." Editor's questions and answers will be published daily.

Labor Men Press To See Cabinet

Officers of the 110,000-member B.C. Federation of Labor pressed for a meeting with the provincial cabinet today on the controversial proposed Labor Bill 43 introduced in the legislature a week ago.

At press time it was not known whether the cabinet would meet the labor men, but federation secretary Pat O'Neal was hopeful.

"There is a good chance we shall meet with the cabinet later today," he said.

Earlier the cabinet refused to reply to a federation telegram seeking a meeting and were accused of "discourtesy" by federation officials.

LITTLE HOPE

It is expected federation president William Black will head the delegation to the cabinet, accompanied by Mr. O'Neal, executive member Bob Smeal, and representatives of both Victoria and Vancouver Labor Councils.

The federation men see little hope that the bill will be withdrawn by the government, but they hope to convince the cabinet to change some sections which they consider will impair trade union welfare.

Mr. Black, meanwhile, termed the proposed bill "unnecessary, because unions always could be sued in the past, as well as now."

(One of the provisions of the new Bill 43 would make unions legal entities subject to be sued, and to sue. It would also outlaw several forms of picketing and make unlawful secondary boycotts by unions.)

Earlier, the federation officials met with Opposition Leader Robert Strachan to discuss steps to change some sections of the bill, and later button-holed all available MLAs to win support for the proposed amendments.

CCF MERGER

It is understood there was some discussion, too, of the long-proposed merger of labor with the CCF party. Victoria labor leaders demanded the marriage be hastened in order to "deal with" anti-labor legislation entered both in B.C. and Newfoundland provincial governments.

Decision to seek a meeting with the cabinet followed a special conference arranged by the federation in Vancouver Monday.

The meeting, attended by some seven or eight Victoria labor leaders, also arranged a special two-day "emergency convention" to discuss the effects of the bill to be held in Vancouver later this month or early in April.

STRIKE SHELVED

The meeting also agreed to seek a 10-cent a month increase in union dues, to raise $11,000 a month for publicity "to tell the public about the injustices of the new legislation."

Talk of a general one-day strike has been shelved, at least for the moment.

"But it is a possibility that has not been ruled out," Mr. O'Neal said.

The federation has received 24 wires from affiliated unions throughout B.C. advocating such a strike against Bill 43, termed by labor officials "the toughest anti-union legislation in Canada."

GRUBER OUT 'ON LOAN' AS GUEST BATON HERE

While Sir Ernest MacMillan is a guest in Victoria, busy rehearsing the Victoria Symphony Orchestra for next weekend's pair of concerts, this city's popular resident conductor, Hans Gruber, will be making a guest appearance in Edmonton.

Maestro Gruber will leave Wednesday to conduct the Edmonton Symphony Orchestra in a single concert. He will be away two weeks.

'Stabilize Labor' Recipe for Jobs

A recipe for increased employment was presented by the B.C. Chamber of Commerce today to the legislative committee on labor.

The group recommended a stabilizing of labor conditions and less taxation and government restriction of business.

The delegation, headed by G. F. "Pat" Dunn of Victoria.

A brief presented to the committee headed by William Murray (S.C. Prince Rupert) said "British Columbia's wage patterns are in most instances the highest in Canada and are among the highest in the world."

"Now is the time to restrict new demands until other areas are on a par with this province's wage levels, so that industry's competitive position may be improved, thus enabling them to provide more employment."

The brief also said that government should review the taxation on industry, so there would be more incentive to expand.

Police Apply For Conciliation On Wage Increase

Victoria's police union applied today for a conciliation officer to assist in its negotiations with the city on a 1959 working contract.

Police have submitted a request for a general wage increase of 15.9 per cent, and so far the police commission is trying to hold the line on wages to last year's level.

It is expected the firemen's union will make a similar application for a conciliation officer, possibly Wednesday, in its negotiations. Firemen seek a 16.1 per cent across-the-board wage increase.

RESPONSIBILITY for preparation of Haydn's oratorio, "The Creation," which Metropolitan United Church choir will present Wednesday night at the church, has given Metropolitan organist and choir master, Eric Boothroyd, a busy rehearsal schedule. Consulting with him here is well-known pianist Grace Timp who will join Mr. Boothroyd in accompanying the performance. Guest conductor will be Beverley Fyfe of Vancouver. Also from Vancouver are soloists Kay Morrison, Bruce Holman and Kenneth Smith.

Spring Is in the Air! The Cleaning Bug's Here

By PENNY SAVER

It's a mystery!
The first whiff of spring—be it cloud-chased sunshine, or full-blooming crocuses—and out we women come, a veritable army, ready to do our annual cleaning battle, bristling with mops, sponges, brushes and brooms.

Suddenly, everything seems a little worn, a little grimy, a little too well used. And we are seized with that age-old urge to wash, scrub, scour and polish every floor, wall, surface and all furniture in sight, within an inch of its life.

In this 20th century the big battle isn't half the back-breaking struggle it was for our grandmothers (or even our mothers). Modern chemistry has been working overtime to make all the hard jobs easier.

To clean the floor that has been paste waxed all through the year—to get the months and months of worn-in grime out—a special floor cleaner is available that eliminates all need of elbow grease.

Just sponge it on, then wipe off with rags. Tough old grime melts away. Large can of this cleaner is $1.95.

Good saver for light colored floors and linoleum—is a special transparent wax, guaranteed not to leave even a suggestion of yellow! Spread it over rinsed-clean floor, and leave it alone. It dries to lustrous gloss—that provides extra tough protection against scuffs. Can is 75 cents.

Another wax has built-in sanitizer—a welcome discovery for use in bathrooms and kitchens. Removes dirt, grease, stains AND attacks germs. When it dries, a protective wax film is left—that resists dirt. Use it like soap for appliances, bathroom fixtures, sinks and tiles. Handy round can is 65 cents.

Want to dry-clean your wool rug? Do-it-yourself, easy as a breeze with this product. Brush in this specially prepared heavy powder, leave 30 minutes, vacuum out—and there you are! Sparkling clean rug.

Think of all the bother and grief you save, for practically nothing. Container with enough powder to do medium-sized rug is $1.75.

If you're having cleaning problems, call me at EV 2-3131 and perhaps some of these products (or others, I've seen) are what you need—I'll tell you where to find them.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Yes, You Can Be a Good Talker; Just Forget Self

The spoken word is our most universal means of communication with others. Yet many very intelligent folks find themselves in an agony of discomfort when in a social group which is composed of persons they do not know well, because they do not know what to say.

And the thought of having to make a speech can even tame a lion. Do you remember the story of the Christian who was to be thrown to the lions in the Roman arena? He had asked for pardon and this was denied him. Then he asked Nero if his life would be spared if he could tame the lion, and this request was granted.

The animal came roaring at him, ready to take his head off, but just before this happened, the Christian hurriedly whispered something into the animal's ear and it slunk away from him. Nero demanded to know what the intended victim had said to the lion, and he replied, "It was very simple. I just reminded him that he would be expected to say a few words after dinner."

NO SPEECH

When you go out socially you do not have to make a speech. Be thankful for that! Also those you meet are not lions. Many of them are just as insecure about conversation as you are. One way or another, they are all just human beings and most of them are very nice human beings—and they all have interesting things to say.

Really, all you have to do in order to be liked and thought of as a good conversationalist is to forget yourself and be truly interested in those you meet. I know that this is not as simple as it sounds. It may be impossible for you to fall in love with the human race at a moment's notice, or to immediately free yourself of self-consciousness. So—here are a few crutches to use until you can do so.

You may be talking to someone who is just as shy as you are. Then why don't you start the ball rolling? You even can use the weather in such a drastic situation. That is better than nothing or "Duh." Or you might ask him or her questions such as where she lives and how long she has lived there and so forth. It doesn't matter what you say but say something.

INFORMED

It is a great help if you are fairly well-informed about current affairs, about books, and music. This self-education you can get through books and newspapers and magazines, radio, TV and records.

Most people are interesting. Once you break the ice with some remark, or maybe a few remarks, they usually will help carry the ball from then on.

If you will approach your daily life with a sense of humor you will find that many seemingly hectic situations and experiences really are funny. These make wonderful little stories which fit in so often in conversation.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Cat and Mouse Game

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Do cats eat all of the mouse? I have a cat and two small pet mice. When I came home from school the door of my mouse-house was open and both my pet mice were gone. I looked all through the house and couldn't find them. The cat is in the house all day. Maybe the mice got out and ran away but I wonder if maybe the cat didn't eat them? PRISSEY.

DEAR PRISSEY: I have asked all the experts in this field (mice fields, that is) and I am sorry to say that I am the one who is trapped. Some say a cat eats the whole mouse and others say he does not eat the tail. Does anyone out there really know?

DEAR ABBY: When my husband loses his temper he uses the most vulgar language in the whole wide world. When I tell him to stop talking like that he says, "If you are such a lady how come you know what it means?" What do you do with a man like that? STUMPED.

DEAR STUMPED: Give him the frigid treatment—until he cools off.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for two years and seven months. I love my husband and he loves me. It so happens that I am expecting my first baby in about three weeks. I admit I am rather large. My husband and I love to dance. We went to a dance with a family party last Saturday and my husband and I were dancing. It wasn't a cha-cha, it was a slow bop. My mother-in-law came out on the floor to get us and she said, "Please sit down. The whole place is laughing at you!" We sat down but I fought to keep the tears back all evening. I never answered her, but I sure felt like it. Do you think she was right to do this to me? LOVES TO DANCE.

DEAR LOVES: A dance floor even for a slow bop is hardly the place for a woman who is three weeks from the delivery room. But your mother-in-law had no right to ask you to sit down. Your self-control was better than hers.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do when you discover you married the wrong man? My husband is a nice person but he is shorter than I and doesn't have a car. He was 44 years old and a man that age has no business marrying a girl my age, which is 23. The man I should have married is 28 and he is taller than I am and has a car. The reason I married this first man was because I didn't think I had a chance with the second one. Now I want to know what I can do about this mess.

MARRIED WRONG.

DEAR MARRIED: You knew how old the man was when you married him. And you surely had a right to assume that a man 44 years old had reached his full growth. Make the best of it, Dearie.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JOHN: If she's "nothing to write home about"—don't write home about her.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped-envelope.

On Etiquette

How many wedding attendants?

My son's fiancée plans to have three attendants at her wedding. Not wishing to omit some of his friends, my son would like to have six or seven attendants for himself. Is it in good form to have such a different number of male attendants from female? If so, how do they walk in the procession?

Assigning table for cards:

We are giving a dinner party for 55 couples. Afterwards, all of the women will play canasta, and I am assigning tables for them by making place cards. The men will play bridge, gin rummy or canasta, as they wish. Should I assign them to their tables too?

Louise Davis answers:

No. You might place a man at a bridge table when he might prefer one of the other games. I suggest that you tell them to arrange their own tables, depending on what games they prefer to play.

There is no harm in having more ushers than girls. However, ushers aren't actually the bridegroom's attendants. They are at a wedding for one important purpose—to usher. The number of men chosen by the bride and her parents depends on the number of people expected at the wedding. In other words, a bride can have no attendants if she wishes, but there can be as many ushers as will be needed. A bridal party is not chosen to match boys and girls in pairs. They are two separate units. Yes, all the ushers march in the procession. They usually go in pairs. In the recessional, where there are more men than girls, the "overflow" follow in pairs.

JOURNEY TO MEXICO

No Visit Really Complete Without the Old Missions

By GRACE HORGAN

I motored alone some 120 miles (round trip) to visit San Xavier Mission near Tucson. The pure white plaster church with its surrounding wall appeared as a dazzling mirage against the desert blue sky.

It is the only one of a chain of 21 missions founded by Father Kino that is in use today.

Modern cars were parked in front of this 18th century building of burnt adobe brick and lime plaster. A sign on the hand carved wooden doors asked that tourists speak softly and that men remove their hats.

As I stood under the time-worn painted dome and admired the hand sculptured and elaborately—but crudely decorated sanctuary I thought of the patient Spanish padres and their unskilled Indian laborers.

The 'Fiesta de los Vaqueros'

Passed through Tucson, Ariz., on the opening day of its annual rodeo and saw part of the mammoth parade in which were 1,000 horses from shining black, gold bedecked stallions to rough-and-ready cow ponies pulling chuck wagons.

There were oxen, buffalo, stage coaches and prairie schooners; cowboys and cowgirls; Indians and real vaqueros off the range.

In fact, the rodeo is called "Fiesta de los Vaqueros."

It is interesting to note that headlines were given to world champion saddle bronc rider Marty Wood of Alberta, Canada, who was to ride in the competitions.

Yesterday morning when I attended 8 o'clock Mass at Sacred Heart Church in Nogales, I noticed a gathering of young people outside the church.

"Is it a wedding?" I asked. "No, it is her 15th birthday," was the reply.

I entered the church and saw a priest and choir in the centre aisle immediately in front of the altar. Organ music announced the procession, led by a pretty young girl in a bouffant green taffeta dress and little fur jacket. She wore a close-fitting black hat and dainty high heeled pumps.

A Spanish senorita in her American best.

On either side were her parents followed by 20 young couples all in their best attire (some of the young girls were wearing hats, some mantillas).

THEY CALL HER 'BIG SISTER'

Women's groups making travel arrangements for conventions anywhere in Canada know Hazel Tompkins Porter as adviser and friend. As Canadian Pacific Railway convention traffic agent, with headquarters in Montreal, Mrs. Porter's work takes her across Canada many times a year. In the picture she is wearing her "Victoria" hat with a "follow the birds" motif, but it could be a Mexican sombrero if she was shepherding a post-convention tour in old Mexico or a white Calgary sletson if she was in the midst of a women's convention in the stampede city. Mrs. Porter is in the city on a brief visit to make arrangements for women's conventions to be held in the Empress Hotel this year.

Child Educator

To Speak Here

Next Thursday evening Miss Grace Dolmage will be in Victoria to address members of Victoria Branch of the Association for Childhood Education. Meetings will be held in the home of Mrs. G. Peterson, 1061 Foul Bay Road.

The branch, formed in this city in 1947 by a small group of educators interested in working for children, has raised several thousand dollars which has been donated to various local groups to help in work for children, including the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

Miss Dolmage is associate professor, Faculty of Education, University of British Columbia. She has had much experience in child guidance clinic work; was Canadian representative to UNESCO in 1948 in Czechoslovakia, on early childhood education and group leader on UNESCO staff in Holland in 1952—on teaching about universal Declaration of Human Rights. She was also executive vice-president of the International Association, 1954-55. Her visit to Victoria is for the purpose of stimulating interest in this association.

Average Student Neglected In Present High School System

Are we fulfilling our responsibility to the average student in today's education?

Dr. Henrietta Anderson felt this was crux of B.C.'s educational problems as she sparked a heated discussion at meeting of Local Council of Women in the Victoria Public Library music room, Monday.

"What about the butcher, baker and candlestick maker? Are we really educating them?" she asked. "Our average student—and he represents 60 per cent—struggles through the general high school program and comes out equipped to do nothing."

"Nothing stimulated his natural interests in school, so he leaves, and drifts into the first job that comes along."

"We have special classes for the bright student, and extra help for the slow learner. We encourage all to go to university," Dr. Anderson said.

She pointed out that it was tragic in the case of one who was not suited to college to be pushed into it.

"What the average student needs is not university but a good vocational training," she urged, "and we are not giving him that."

"Students need a general education, as well as vocational training," said Mrs. J. M. Thomas.

Should the taxpayer carry the load of vocational training, as well as academic learning, she wondered.

Special trades schools, which trained in English, social studies and general educational subjects, but which also gave basics of trades were the answer, Dr. Anderson felt.

Mrs. A. J. Tullis pointed out the need for tradespeople to take a pride in their trade. Miss Ethel Bruce cited the example of the glass industry in Holland. It hand-picked boys for this trade. It is a great honor for parents and boy if he is chosen. Yet it is a trade. Tradespeople in Canada seem to lack this pride, she felt.

Special guest, Mrs. E. E. Livesey, a Victoria high school teacher, summed up the problem of trades, the average student and the responsibility of education with the question:

"How well is our system taking care of all abilities, not just academic, but manual, artistic, mechanical and others?"

"It is our moral responsibility to search out whatever ability a child has and to exploit that ability. We must have schools to handle those abilities, or we will fail 60 per cent of our children when we try to educate them."

Miss M. Storey was appointed alternate delegate to the local unemployment advisory committee. Mrs. Bert Noel chaired the meeting.

TV with 22

Wayne and Shuster Offer Hour-Long Comedy, Skits at 9.30 on 6, 2

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

MAN DISCUSSES GOD—Two programs of more than ordinary interest provided a suitable period to last week's viewing. The first was the hour-long interview by Explorations of eight Canadians on their thoughts about God and the second was the excellent view allowed of the Van Gogh collection at Seattle's Art Museum.

The thoughts, on God of the eight interviewed by Dalhousie's Dr. George Grant were thought-provoking but served to prove only how far distant man the mortal is from God the immortal. It also served to show God's face in his infinity. If there were a trillion million persons interviewed it is unlikely that any two would have described the same face.

Certainly none of the eight who were interviewed at different times without knowledge of what the others said, had a similar approach to a picture of the Divinity. On the other hand—and this was good to hear in this land of ours—none professed atheism or even agnosticism. They were a sound cross-section of the Canadian mind, too.

There was Miss Bessie Touzel, director of the Ontario Welfare Council; Dr. W. G. Penfield, Neurologist at Institute, Montreal; Dr. K. C. MacDonald, National Research Council, Ottawa; A. B. Bennett, president of a Toronto investment house; W. J. Bennett, general manager of Canadian British Aluminum Co. Ltd.; Mrs. J. L. Halpenney, Toronto housewife and church worker; Dr. Victorin Voyer, professor of psychiatry at the University of Ottawa, and Robertson Davies, editor and publisher of the Peterborough Examiner.

OF THEM ALL, however, the thesis that touched my heart most was that of A. B. Bennett, a Hebrew, who saw God as a Oneness with all, with man, the earth, the moon, the stars and the entire universe, the alpha and omega, the first and the last and the beginning and the end. In this I am at one with the philosopher Kant to whom God was a bridge and we were a part of that bridge, the cross bars, the angles and the triangles, the girders and all that made up the bridge until, in the end we and the God-bridge were one and the same, the force was us in God and, I suppose, vice-versa.

In the end, however, man trying to understand God is a pitiable sight for what has been created over the millions of years has been created and in all the eons of time since man never created anything for himself except from what had been created in the first place by a Someone who we have chosen to call God.

I found it all most stimulating.

As for the Van Gogh showing it was quite informative thanks to the commentary by Don McCune and Millard Rogers, assistant director of the Seattle Art Museum. This is the sort of program that will come into its own once color television belongs to the masses. Nonetheless, better in black and white than not at all.

May there be more such shows from all corners of the world, covering not only painting but sculpting, architecture, photography and all arts that lend themselves to the visual medium of TV.

PWA Bids For New Routes

Pacific Western Airlines, Canada's third largest air carrier, hopes to spread its operational wings.

Already an applicant to take over Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle service from Trans-Canada Air Lines, PWA announced today it has applied to the Air Transport Board to fly several routes out of Edmonton.

The latest PWA move was made in concert with Canadian Pacific Airlines' application to withdraw from those routes.

PWA says it would operate the same type of aircraft as CPA and charge the same passenger and freight rates if it is licensed to fly routes from Edmonton to Uranium City, Yellowknife, Peace River, Fort McMurray and other points in the McKenzie River area.

NEW AIRCRAFT

PWA president Karl Springer said some additional aircraft would be required but initially the company would call on existing equipment to provide the same service offered by CPA.

Mr. Springer said serious consideration is being given to the purchase of new turbo-prop aircraft for PWA's present and proposed routes in western Canada.

The company applied about a month ago to take over TCA's west coast service between Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle. PWA said it would use C-46 aircraft, supplemented by DC-3s, on the run.

Briefs opposing the PWA application as well as a later application by B.C. Airlines, have been sent to the Air Transport Board by Chamber of Commerce, Victoria's city council, businesses and individuals.

Hearings on the PWA application are scheduled for Vancouver and Victoria within two months. No decision is expected until fall.

perience whose services will be of inestimable value to this province," the premier said.

"He has one of the keenest minds in Canada and he is distinguished in Canada and throughout the world."

Premier Bennett stated that Dr. Keenleyside, in addition to being chairman of the commission, would act as special adviser to the government on "many technical matters."

"We hope he will be one of our advisers on the Columbia River development," he added.

The premier laid special emphasis on the fact that Dr. Keenleyside was one of Prime Minister Mackenzie King's secretariat in Ottawa in 1936.

"He has had great experience with a great Canadian—Mr. Mackenzie King."

Born in Toronto, Dr. Keenleyside was raised and educated in Vancouver, taking his B.A. degree at the University of British Columbia in 1920.

He is married and has four children.

Dr. Keenleyside entered the Canadian diplomatic service by competitive examination in 1928. He was promoted first secretary in 1929 and, as charge d'affaires, established the first Canadian diplomatic mission in Japan the same year.

In 1937 he was head of the American and Far Eastern division, Department of External Affairs, and in 1941 became assistant under-secretary of state for external affairs.

In 1944 he was ambassador to Mexico and from 1947 to 1950 deputy minister of mines and resources and commissioner of the Northwest Territories.

From 1950 to 1959 he was director-general of the technical assistance administration of the United Nations. He was appointed under-secretary of public administration in January.

Other appointments include lecturer in economic and social history 1923-27; adviser to the Canadian delegation, Commonwealth Economic Conference in Ottawa, 1933; member of the Canadian Shipping Board, 1940-43; member of the interdepartmental committee on the St. Lawrence Seaway, 1940-50.

In 1946 he represented the United Nations at the World Power Conference at Vienna.

Dr. Keenleyside is known as an international jack-of-all-trades. Among many other abilities, he is known as a crack poker player and a cook. He ranks in foreign circles with John Diefenbaker, Lester Pearson and Dr. Brock Chisholm as a respected Canadian.

In his background are achievements such as restoring fertility to a valley in India to provide livelihood for 300,000 people, building fish farms in Haiti, and producing electricity from hot springs in the West Indies.

In 1951 he made headlines by refusing to shake hands with Hitler's former financial genius, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht.

STAKEOUT PAYS OFF AFTER BURGLARIES

Shotgun Grocers Ambush Boy With Hand in Till

A 14-year-old Saanich boy was to face three charges in juvenile court today following his capture by a pair of grocers, who bore down on him with rifle and shotgun in their Marigold store Monday evening.

The do-it-yourself "policemen" stalked out their dimly-lighted Marigold Market, 359 Marigold, without telling Saanich police of a series of burglaries in which they lost about $40 and a carton of cigarettes.

Brothers George and Gordon Girtton said they hid 1 1/2 hours behind their store counters until a boy jimmied a front door lock, walked into the store and put his hand into the cash register which contained about $40 in silver.

CHARGES EXPECTED

Then they called police for the first time, and the boy was taken into custody.

It was expected he would be remanded to Friday, regular Saanich juvenile court day, on two charges of breaking, entering and theft, and one charge of breaking, entering and attempted theft at Marigold Market.

Gordon Girtton said sums of money ranging between $10 and $20 were missed from the cash register on three nights last week, and on Monday morning a carton of cigarettes was missing.

"We figured he was getting in as easy as we were and we wanted to find who it was. We didn't care if he was a man or a boy."

TOOK SHELLS OUT

Gordon Girtton said a night light in the store illuminated the heavy-set form of the youngster.

"That's when we took the shells out of our guns."

He said the boy opened the door with the blade of a knife. When the brothers switched on the main store lights and sprang toward the cash register from two directions, the boy said, according to Gordon: "I thought you were open. I came in to get something." It was then about 8.15.

To find out which door the burglar was using, wads of paper tied to threads were placed under the front and rear doors so that they would have to be dislodged if the doors were opened.

The grocers did this four nights prior to Monday, but their first stakeout, crouched behind boxes and shelves with guns on their knees, was Monday night.

Reeve Favors Pound for SPCA

Reeve George Chatterton favors turning over the operation of the Saanich municipal pound to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The SPCA Monday offered to take over the pound in return for 80 per cent of the licence fees. It also agreed to acquire and pay for the property for the pound.

"The pound was some $2,500 in the red last year," the reeve told council. "I think this is a good offer."

The matter was referred to the lands and planning committee for consideration.

Girl Strangled; Enticed to Job

TORONTO (CP)—A car with a missing horn ring has been found parked near a field where the body of a 12-year-old girl was discovered Monday night, police said today.

A broken car horn ring had been found near the body and police considered it a possible clue in the strangling of Patricia Lupton.

She was beaten and choked to death somewhere between her suburban Scarborough home and a nearby supermarket where she had agreed to meet a man about a baby-sitting job.

OFFER $5,000 REWARD

Metropolitan Toronto police and the Ontario attorney-general's department have offered a joint $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the slayer.

The girl left home at dusk on Monday night to arrange a baby-sitting job. An hour later her body, a man's scarf knotted tightly around the neck, was found in the snow-covered field by three men. The girl had not been raped, but her clothes were disarranged.

Mrs. B. P. Lupton, who has five other children, said her daughter had added her name to a list the girl's friends placed on a supermarket bulletin board offering baby-sitting services.

A man telephoned the Lupton home at 6 p.m. in response to the notice and a half hour later the girl left for a rendezvous at the store.

The Cold Facts Of Bankruptcy

By HAL MALONE, Times Business Editor

Operating a business is not just a matter of emptying the cash register at closing time, taking month-long trips to Hawaii aboard your private yacht or deciding which polo ponies to ship for the Long Island matches.

Precisely 1,380 businessmen made this discovery last year. When 1958 closed shop for good, they had no till, no yacht, no polo ponies, and no money. Instead they had liabilities of $51,380,000.

These cold facts were revealed today by Dun & Bradstreet, the watchdog of Canadian credit. At that, the number of Canadian failures last year was less than in any previous year.

And the number of failures in the last half of 1958 (660) was the lowest for any comparable period since the beginning of 1957.

Retailers were the heaviest victims, 322 of them drowning in red ink.

The least safe businesses were retail food stores and automotive products. In each 62 firms succumbed. Building subcontractors ran a close second, 59 of them having to close their doors.

After that came restaurants (55 "went fishing" permanently); apparel stores, 54 victims, and general contractors, 51 died.

Wholesalers had the lowest mortality rate—only 58 of them bit the dust.

wholesale supplies. Not one failure has been reported in two years.

Undertakers also held up remarkably well. Only one burial firm was deceased in 1958, none in 1957.

B.C. ranked third behind Quebec and Ontario with 62 bankruptcies last year, up 11 from 1957.

Driver Killed As 'Cat' Slips

ALBERNI — Gerry Angus White, 56, a "Cat" driver for McLean Lumber Company was killed instantly Monday when the tractor he was driving off a slope slipped sideways and crushed the driver under the roof.

Fellow workers stood by helplessly as the machine rolled over.

The accident took place at McLean's logging operations on the Beaufort range where the victim has worked for the past 23 years.

A bachelor, White is reported to have relatives in Quebec, and was believed to have been born in Nova Scotia.

An inquiry into the fatal accident was held at Alberni police station Monday night.

NANAIMO — A search for Richard Tilley, 15, and Kenneth Aiken, 16, of Ladysmith, who failed to return Sunday night from a fishing trip, was called off Monday when the two youths walked out unaided and reported to police.

They had spent the night in a snowstorm.

Soap Box Derby Group Asks Hill

CHEMUNUS — The Soap Box Derby committee will seek permission from the municipality to use the Oak Street hill here for races again this year. It will open in May and races will be held the middle of each month. The All-Island run will be held here June 14.

If enough girls show interest in building and racing bugs, a special competition will be arranged for them and a special trophy offered.

PORT ALBERNI — Kenneth Croft, 22, and Benjamin Maurice Binns pleaded guilty Monday to causing a disturbance, using obscene language and obstructing police officers. Each was fined $75. The charges arose from an incident at an Argyle Street cafe.

NANAIMO — Between 30 and 40 members of Vancouver Island chambers of commerce attended a seminar on executive training here Monday. It was conducted by Jim Fraser of Montreal, an official of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

NANAIMO — The oldest wood-burning locomotive in operation in the forest industry on Vancouver Island with the next two weeks will be assigned to a permanent spot at Paldi to serve as a memorial to the old days of logging.

SIDNEY — The first annual spring carnival will be held here Saturday in SANSCHA Hall from 1 p.m. to midnight.

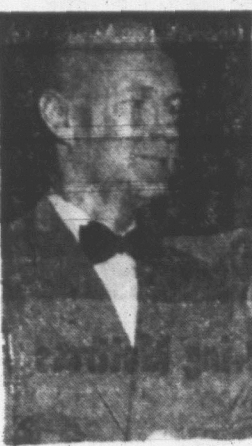

Features will include home-cooking, carnival games and free movies for the children. During the evening variety stage acts will be presented by members of the Peninsula Players, Sidney Girls' Drill Team, North Saanich High School Band and others.

CRASH VICTIMS STILL CRITICAL

COURTENAY — Two Vancouver men injured in a car crash here Sunday, in which Mrs. Flora Chauvin, also of Vancouver, was killed, were still reported in "critical" condition today in St. Joseph's Hospital, Comox.

They are J. W. McDonagh and Vern Saiche.

A coroner's jury adjourned here Monday after viewing the body of Mrs. Chauvin.

SOLARIUM PRESIDENT'S PHILOSOPHY

Love, Affection Lead Cure

Without love and affection, "no treatment or cure could be effective," says David Angus, president of the Queen Alexandra Solarium Society.

He made his remarks at the annual meeting, expressing strong appreciation for numerous groups and organizations, including the Junior League here and the Thetis chapter, that have contributed substantially to success of the home for crippled children on Arbutus Road.

One of the main changes in Solarium procedure during the year, he said, was admission and treatment of medical staff patients.

Final Rites Today

DUNCAN — Funeral services were to be held today for Miss Kathleen Powel, 68, a resident of Duncan for 33 years. Born at Keene, Ont., she resided in Peterborough before coming here. She died Sunday.

"This is expected to enlarge the scope of the hospital." Another project "ahead" is retaining wall at the beach in front of the new location at Gordon Head.

"We have high hopes this can be undertaken soon," he said.

Administrator John Holdstock said 12,577 days of patient care were given in 1958 to 75 children. The average length of stay for each child was more than 315 days.

Treatment was split 45 per cent orthopedic and 55 per cent medical.

Practically every community in the province was represented during the year, he said, with 7,736 patient days devoted to children from Vancouver Island and 4,841 to children from the mainland.

WAITING LIST

There are now 43 children in the Solarium, with 10 on the waiting list to be admitted within two weeks. This may

'Rupture' With Victoria Seen in Park Aid Denial

Coun. Stanley Murphy Monday foresaw a "rupture" of good relations with Victoria because of Saanich Council's delaying tactics to pay a grant towards the maintenance of Beaver-Elk Lakes and Gorge Park.

Council opposed approval of a $4,000 annual grant towards the city until it was assured by Victoria that the two recreational areas would not be sold.

It also decided to ask the city at the next inter-municipal committee to dedicate the two recreational areas as parks.

The parks are administered by the Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee.

Coun. Leslie Passmore, supported by Coun. George Austin and Coun. Harold Todd, opposed the grant on the grounds the parks had never been dedicated for public use.

Coun. Passmore said he had even seen a "subdivision plan for the Gorge Park."

"I can't see the sense of making contributions towards these parks if the city can turn around at any time and sell them."

Reeve George Chatterton, Councillors Murphy and Charles Nelles felt it unwise for Saanich to press the city to dedicate the parks at present.

"The more we make grants towards the parks, the harder it will be for the city to sell them," said Reeve Chatterton.

"Besides, the city would be unfair to its ratepayers if it sold Beaver-Elk Lake property after it used their centennial and public funds for improvements to the recreational area."

"Our policy should be to co-operate. A rift with the city won't improve things," said Coun. Murphy.

Iraq Revolt Beaten

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq's government claimed today it had crushed a Nationalist revolt and huge crowds swept through Baghdad proclaiming support for Premier Abdel Krim Kassem, the Iraqi Radio reported.

Slogans shouted by demonstrators could be heard clearly over the Baghdad radio — "Long Live Kassem," "Down with damn Eisenhower" and "Down with the plotters."

The radio said the demonstrators marched to the defence ministry to proclaim their allegiance to Kassem.

The demonstrators handed Kassem a set of resolutions. One asked him to "take the necessary punitive and diplomatic measures against countries plotting against the Iraqi Republic," Baghdad Radio said.

PRESUMABLY UAR

The resolution mentioned no nation but it presumably referred to the United Arab Republic. It echoed a government official's charge that an unnamed foreign power had stirred up the trouble. The rebels had announced sympathy with President Nasser's program for Arab unity.

The rebels, whether by choice or necessity, maintained radio silence after signing off with a final claim that they controlled all north Iraq last midnight.

Mystery still surrounded the insurrection led by Col. Abdel Wahab Shawaf in oil-rich Mosul.

OPPOSE NASSER

Kassem's regime has been at loggerheads with Nasser for months over the Iraqi leaders' refusal to adopt a policy of Arab unity along lines advocated in Cairo.

Baghdad radio repeated its claim — denied throughout Monday by the rebels' radio Mosul — that Shawaf had been killed by his own men.

PM Vetoes Farm Subsidy Payments

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker emphasized today he would use every possible means of increasing aid for prairie farmers but he indicated there would be no immediate action to provide growers with the $300,000,000 in deficiency payments they have requested.

In an hour-long speech before the mass delegation of prairie grain growers, he outlined some of the existing and future plans for agriculture — plans to boost farm credit and provide crop insurance, provide aid for wheat exporters and keep intact the low Crown freight rates on export grain.

Strange Blast Rocks Victoria

A mysterious explosion rocked Victoria at 10 a.m. today.

Police, fire, press, and radio phones were kept busy by startled and curious residents from an area covering the whole of Greater Victoria as far north as Royal Oak.

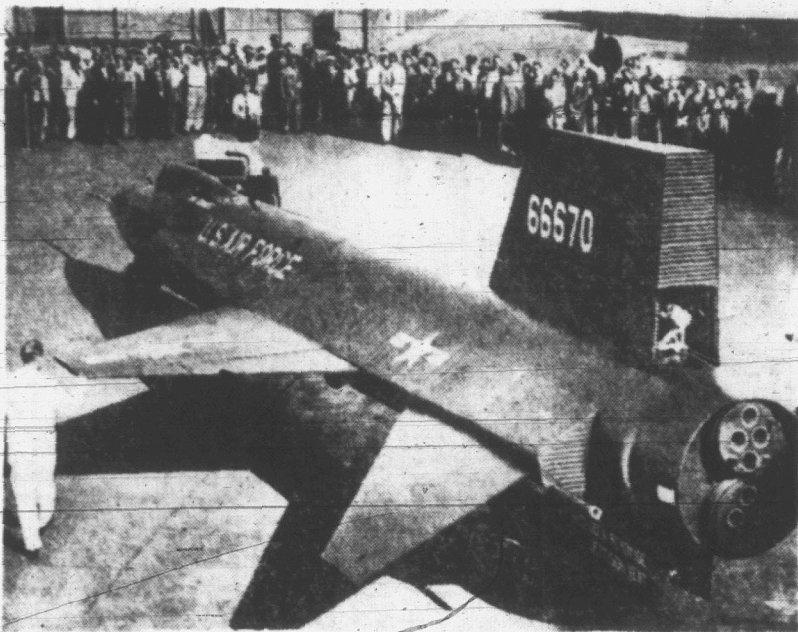

Rock blasting, gas main explosion, and other explanations were quickly ruled out by checks with officials concerned.

Army representatives at Work Point Barracks heard the blast but said they were not responsible, and an RCN spokesman at Esquimalt said no ships were firing in the area.

'BABY' ATOM WEAPONS FIRED FROM SHOULDER?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission disclosed today it has developed or is trying to develop real baby-sized nuclear weapons with a wallop of only a ton of TNT.

While the AEC gave no hint as to their possible use, presumably the baby weapons would be designed for infantry use similar to the shoulder-fired Bazooka rocket gun.

ROCKET SHIP TESTED

U.S. rocket ship X-15, expected to carry more than 100 miles into space this summer, today successfully completed its first "captive flight" test at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Sleek, black dart was in the air for an hour and 10 minutes locked to a pylon under the wing of a B-52 bomber. X-15 may be tested on its own later this week.

FAMED DIPLOMAT HEADS BOARD

By PETE LOUDON

Appointment of Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, world-renowned diplomat and United Nations official to chairmanship of the B.C. Power Commission, gives the province a new power in international negotiations on the Columbia River hydro development.

This was the first reaction of top government officials to the announcement in the House by Premier Bennett Monday.

They said Dr. Keenleyside will be of "inestimable value" to B.C.

His career as a globe-trotting diplomat and statesman has earned admiration of Ottawa and Washington authorities.

The respect on both sides of the border for his abilities could sway settlement of the controversial problem of downstream benefits on the Columbia, it is felt.

Dr. Keenleyside, 60, will be B.C.P.C. chairman and special adviser to the B.C. government on power resources, the premier said.

He will replace T. H. Crosby who retires March 31, and will head a new five-man board whose other members are still to be appointed.

Dr. Keenleyside is now under-secretary of public administration for the United Nations at New York.

It was learned Dr. Keenleyside will receive $20,000 a year salary in his new position — $10,000 less than he is reportedly earning in the UN position.

However, it was explained by an informed source, Dr. Keenleyside is mainly interested in returning to his home province to settle. The task presented by the chairman's duties is more interesting to him than the remuneration.

Dr. Keenleyside today was scheduled to be in Jerusalem on a lecture tour, but is expected back in New York April 1.

He is expected to keep his United Nations post until Dec. 1, handling that work and the Victoria post on a shared work basis which will require considerable travel between the two cities, until he takes over here on a full-time basis.

The premier made this announcement while the House was considering increasing borrowing powers for the B.C. Power Commission from $250,000,000 to $350,000,000.

He is a man of great experience.

Breach Widens As Cabinet Denies Meet

By PETE LOUDON

The breach between the provincial government and its civil service widened today as a scheduled province-wide strike deadline set for 7 a.m. Friday drew nearer.

A morning meeting of the cabinet failed to grant a B.C. Government Employees Association request for a meeting aimed at averting strike action. Provincial Secretary W. D. Black instead issued a further statement, to be read, he said, in conjunction with his statement of Monday which announced undefined wage increases.

BCGEA general secretary Ed O'Connor, advised of the cabinet decision, said from Vancouver:

"It's obvious by the tactics of the cabinet, they have no intention of bargaining in good faith, now or at any other time... the strike is still on."

Mr. Black's statement today: "The Civil Service Commission is at liberty at any time to show to interested employees the salary schedules recommended to the government by the Civil Service Commission and which the government has accepted for implementation on April 1, 1959."

SUSPICIOUS

Monday he said a $1,500,000 vote in the finance department estimates for civil service increases would be supplemented to "take care of necessary salary increases..." They would be effective April 1 except for those affecting 156 steam engineers whose increases would date back to April 1, 1958.

The BCGEA was suspicious of the earlier statement because the premier said before that no funds could be provided except by the legislature. Supplementary votes, it was thought, would come from the cabinet.

WANT TO BE SURE

BCGEA officials were adamant in their request for a meeting with the cabinet which might erase all suspicions.

They said they want to be certain the increases promised are those which were arranged earlier in meetings with the Civil Service Commission.

A look at the schedules, as promised today, will not suffice.

Although Mr. Black has made possible scrutiny of the schedules, the association wants an agreement in writing before calling off the strike.

Mr. Black was asked again this morning if the cabinet Continued on Page 22

JEWELS GONE

Norah Loses 'Everything' To Thieves

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — Lady Norah Docker reported that somebody stole nearly $500,000 worth of jewels out of her parked car Monday night.

"They've taken all my jewelry, everything I've got," wailed the blonde society figure whose exploits have made her an international headliner. The loot included emerald bracelets, gem-encrusted earrings, and necklaces set with sapphires and diamonds.

Her industrialist husband, Sir Bernard Docker, said the theft occurred while he and his wife were attending a dinner party.

The car was parked in a dead-end street only 150 yards from the central police station.

Docker said they had the jewels in the car because they were on their way from their country estate at Stockbridge to their London apartment.

RCMP Patrols Charged With 'Strike Breaking'

GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (CP) — President H. Landon Ladd of International Woodworkers of America (IWA) District 2 today wired federal Justice Minister Fulton protesting the use of "strike breakers" of RCMP patrols in the Newfoundland loggers dispute.

The wire came after an announcement by RCMP Inspector E. H. Stevenson that there were about 100 members of the force in the strike area, including about 25 men from the Newfoundland constabulary, a St. John's police force supported by the provincial government.

The air was tense in this paper-mill town today as the newly formed Brotherhood of Newfoundland Woods Workers (Ind.) resumed contract negotiations with officials of the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company.

The tension grew with reports that IWA members and supporters would try to stop members of the new union from crossing IWA picket lines if the brotherhood signs a working agreement with the company.

Canada Beats Scots

PERTH, Scotland (CP) — Canada came from behind on the 11th end today to defeat Scotland 11-9 and take a two-game lead in the best-of-five Scotch Cup curling series.

NO 'FARCE'; OUR AIR ARM STAYS 'RCAF'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate banking committee today opposed a government move to give the RCAF a new French name, contending that the name could be abbreviated to "FARCE."

The committee deleted from a government bill to amend the National Defence Act a section changing the RCAF's French name from Corps d'Aviation Royal Canadian to Forces Aeriennes Royales du Canada.

Senator C. G. Chubb, P.O.E., Canada's wartime air minister, said if an "E" was added to the French abbreviation — FARCE — or if the "C" was given a soft pronunciation, the air force would be known in French as "FARCE."

Poland Buys Canadian Wheat

OTTAWA (CP) — Poland has agreed to buy 150,000 tons of Canadian wheat between now and July 31, Trade Minister Churchill announced today.

He told the Commons that the 5,400,000 bushels of wheat will start moving almost immediately via Atlantic ports.

In addition, negotiations will begin with the Polish government trade agency to buy 100,000 bushels of Canadian barley.

Both Opposition Leader Pearson and Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, welcomed Mr. Churchill's announcement.

PEA PAY PROMPTS PEEVE

Queen Wants Farm to Pay

SANDRINGHAM, Eng. (AP) — It's a rare day indeed when the Queen and the mundane matter of money are mentioned in the same breath.

Today it happened, and the cause was the price of peas.

Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip have threatened to cancel a pea-growing contract with a frozen food company.

Furthermore, if the frozen food company doesn't change its pea-buying policy it can haul away its $8,400 pea separating machine from the Royal Farm in Norfolk.

The controversy came up when the company decided to pay $126 a ton for peas instead of paying by the acre.

The company said no profit could be made paying by the acre and the Royal Farm found there was no profit in growing peas for $126 a ton.

The Royal Couple have told manager Roger Mutimer that Sandringham Farm "must be made to pay its way."

Glad th' nurses got their raise. Better t' hev 'em nursin' a patient, than nursin' a grievance.

Fa's I kin see in that Iraq thing, last year's rebels hev fought off this year's rebels.

VIKING VIEWS

By IAN SMITH

Dick Sparks and Don Farquhar have been warming up for the Vic College Viking golf championship at Gorge Vale on Sunday.

Sparks and Farquhar successfully defended the school golf buttons at Gorge Vale Sunday, stopping Barry Saunders and Hank Lum, 5 and 4.

Sparks, in particular, found the course to his liking, touring the front nine only four strokes over par, despite the fact that he took three double bogeys in the nine holes.

If he erases some of the mistakes that cost him the double bogeys, he should be tough to beat on Sunday.

However, at least 20 others will be doing their best, including his doubles partner, and the former button holders, John Reid and Blair McLean.

Entries have been received from Farquhar, Sparks, McLean, Reid, Bill Sanderson, Lloyd Evans, Bill Wansborough, Clayton Kirby, Saunders, John Whittaker, Ray Latta, Dick Freeman, Dick Tripp, Clint Bradshaw, Colin Nicholson, Bob Mills, Keith Webb, Bill Kirby, Bob Jeeves, Lum and Dan Paterson.

Tea-off time is 12.30 p.m.

The Viking rugby team continues to chalk up shutouts. On Thursday and Saturday they shut out Royal Roads and University of British Columbia Tomahawks, both by scores of 24-0.

Derek Hood led scorers in both games, scoring 12 points in each contest on a try, a penalty kick and three converts. Roy Fieldwalker scored one try and Craig Andrews added two in the Thursday game. On Saturday Jon Benson and Russ Chambers each scored a try, while Jere Mitchell kicked a field goal.

If it isn't one thing, it's another. College Viking soccer team is running into more troubles than enough in its attempt to win the Inter-Collegiate League championship. On February 27 the Vikings went happily onto the field in the belief that: (a) They would play Royal Roads; (b) it was the final league game of the year; and (c) if they won it they would be league champions.

But Royal Roads couldn't field a team and the game was postponed a week. So last Wednesday the Vikings again got set to play, with the same three thoughts in mind.

Play they did, and win they did, 5-2—but then they found out that it wasn't the final league game of the year, and that they hadn't yet won the championship.

Cause of the trouble was a postponed game with Pacific Naval Laboratories. Since most of the PNL team is now unavailable to play, it was assumed that the game would be defaulted.

The Labmen, however, are attempting to form a pickup

Pils Get Spot Against Tars

Coy Cup Hockey Semifinal Starts at Arena Tonight

Vancouver Pilseners hammered their way into the semifinal round of the B.C. intermediate hockey playoffs Monday night with an 8-4 win over Chilliwack Loggers.

Tonight they meet Victoria Navy at Memorial Arena in the best-of-five semifinal opener, starting at 8.30 p.m.

Pilseners will be short one player though, when they take the ice following an "indefinite" suspension to John Halley by Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey Association president Ivan Temple of Victoria.

TO BE REVIEWED

The "indefinite" tag was hung on the suspension by Temple, because the ruling has to be reviewed by BOAHA president Leo Atwell before being confirmed.

Halley was set down Sunday when it was charged he "clipped" the referee following an argument over a penalty assessed him in the playoff game in Chilliwack.

Navy earned the playoff berth with an upset Island final win over Nanaimo Clippers in their best-of-five series.

RESUME THURSDAY

The second game of the series is scheduled for Memorial Arena Thursday. Third and fourth games will be played in Vancouver.

Vancouver scorers Monday were Nick Yanchuck and Joe Wolk, each with two goals.

HAMILTON, New Zealand

(Reuters) — Tom Graveney, scoring his second century of the British cricket tour, saved MCC's reputation when it met a central and northern districts team today.

Graveney drove and pulled in fine style and hit 108, including nine fours, in a stay of two hours, 28 minutes.

'Compromise' Metro Government Seen in Intermunicipal Group

By JOHN MIKA

Greater Victoria appears to be groping slowly but steadily toward a secondary level of civic government that would arbitrate municipal boundaries.

Latest development in the evolution occurred Monday when intermunicipal committee formally established two sub-committees to deal with industrial development and transportation problems on a Greater Victoria basis.

This ad hoc growth, necessary to meet common problems with common action, seems to be developing along informal lines towards a semi-metropolitan government.

Chief difference between the Greater Victoria pattern and development in other metro regions is an "escape clause" which allows any municipality to set its own course without reference to intermunicipal committee.

But the difference is academic, to some extent.

Although intermunicipal committee only can "recommend" action to the four municipalities, those recommendations are made by the mayor and three reeves as well as senior members of the four councils.

Inevitably, the "recommendations" carry sufficient weight to pass in each council, with rare exceptions.

More and more, since the intermunicipal committee was established on a formal basis a year ago, the various councils have referred broad, and sometimes narrow, problems to this committee.

As a result, more than just a "meeting of minds" frequently occurs in the committee. Decisions are made there that can't be made by any one municipality with the same ease.

The status of the committee

is steadily rising with some councillors, who are increasingly willing to send difficult area-wide problems "up above" for some solution.

The committee's role as a generator for new proposals, as well as a channel for solving old problems, also is advancing.

This was evidenced by the decision to set up a standing committee on industrial development which Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood said was needed by "the area as a whole."

The industrial development sub-committee, significantly, will report to the intermunicipal committee, and at every meeting, instead of to the various councils.

One of its first jobs will be to decide whether an industrial commissioner should be hired to analyze the industrial potential here and make sure that new industries are informed that locating here has many advantages.

Creation of such an office, if made, would require a budget. The precedent was set last year when intermunicipal committee was given a budget for centennial year purposes.

If the Capital Region Planning Board's master plan is not adopted, as anticipated, due to administrative problems, intermunicipal committee can expect to be called upon for more work.

All the municipalities have expressed satisfaction with the actual recommendations in the master plan. But, if the plan isn't adopted, CPRB will not be able to administer it.

Since the municipalities wait to follow the development outline in the plan, intermunicipal committee is the logical alternative body to act as a sort of co-ordinating agency for implementing the recommendations.

If this happens, then the committee will have undertaken another important duty of government—planning for the future as well as contending with the present.

Ultimately, if the pattern continues to develop, the existing multiplicity of joint boards, committees and commissions logically could be put under the wing of intermunicipal committee.

The final step, many years hence, would be to give intermunicipal committee power to order as well as recommend, in certain fields.

PORT ALBERNI MAYOR CHARGES

'Officials Run Pleasure Boat'

Mayor Loran Jordon of Port Alberni Monday charged the Harbor Commission with using its year-old $16,000 boat as a pleasure craft and declared he could prove it.

In a fiery address to council, he said fishermen complained that they could run their boats on the rocks and get no help from the commission as far as it was concerned.

Speaking to the press table, Mayor Jordon said: "In my opinion the harbor commissioner's boat is used for nothing more than a pleasure craft. I can prove this, and the press can quote me."

To back up his charges, the mayor said he would get the operators of one or two fishing boats to address council and put the whole thing before the public.

In an interview today, he stuck to his charges and commented further that a friend of his who operated a fishing boat told him "the harbor boat should be used for cleaning deadheads out of the harbor and not for running up and down the canal."

The friend, who Jordon did not name, was quoted as "very bitter" in his complaint about the commission and use of its boat.

Ted Vrooman, secretary for the commission, said the mayor's charges were "too ridiculous to answer," and said that he would prefer not to give a reply at this time.

"What's the matter with the man? Why should he say a ridiculous thing like that?" he said.

Power Chief
An Ace Card
On Columbia

By PETE LOUDON

Appointment of Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, world-renowned diplomat and United Nations official to chairmanship of the B.C. Power Commission, gives the province a new power in international negotiations on the Columbia River hydro development.

This was the first reaction of top government officials to the announcement in the House by Premier Bennett Monday.

They said Dr. Keenleyside will be of "inestimable value" to B.C.

His career as a globe-trotting diplomat and statesman has earned admiration of Ottawa and Washington authorities.

The respect on both sides of the border for his abilities could sway settlement of the controversial problem of downstream benefits on the Columbia, it is felt.

Dr. Keenleyside, 60, will be B.C.P.C. chairman and special adviser to the B.C. government on power resources, the premier said.

He will replace T. H. Crosby who retires March 31, and will head a new five-man board whose other members are still to be appointed.

Dr. Keenleyside is now undersecretary of public administration for the United Nations at New York.

It was learned Dr. Keenleyside will receive $20,000 a year salary in his new position—$10,000 less than he is reportedly earning in the UN position.

However, it was explained by an informed source, Dr. Keenleyside is mainly interested in returning to his home province to settle. The task presented by the chairman's duties is more interesting to him than the remuneration.

Dr. Keenleyside today was scheduled to be in Jerusalem on a lecture tour, but is expected back in New York April 1.

He is expected to keep his United Nations post until Dec. 1, handling that work and the Victoria post on a shared-work basis which will require considerable travel between the two cities, until he takes over here on a full-time basis.

The premier made this announcement while the House was considering increasing borrowing powers for the B.C. Power Commission from $250,000,000 to $350,000,000.

FIRED FROM SHOULDER?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission disclosed today it has developed or is trying to develop baby-sized nuclear weapons with a wallop of only a ton of TNT.

While the AEC gave no hint as to their possible use, presumably the baby weapons would be designed for infantry use similar to the shoulder-fired Bazooka rocket gun.

Iraq
Revolt
Beaten

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraq's government claimed today it had crushed a Nationalist revolt and huge crowds swept through Baghdad proclaiming support for Premier Abdel Krim Kassem; the Iraqi Radio reported.

Slogans shouted by demonstrators could be heard clearly over the Baghdad radio—"Long Live Kassem," "Down with damn Eisenhower" and "Down with the plotters."

The radio said the demonstrators marched to the defence ministry to proclaim their allegiance to Kassem.

The demonstrators handed Kassem a set of resolutions. One asked him to "take the necessary punitive and diplomatic measures against countries plotting against the Iraq Republic," Baghdad Radio said.

PRESUMABLY UAR

The resolution mentioned no nation but it presumably referred to the United Arab Republic. It echoed a government official's charge that an unnamed foreign power had stirred up the trouble. The rebels had announced sympathy with President Nasser's program for Arab unity.

The rebels, whether by choice or necessity, maintained radio silence after signing off with a final claim that they controlled all north Iraq last night.

Mystery still surrounded the insurrection led by Col. Abdel Wahab Shawaif in oil-rich Mosul.

OPPOSE NASSER

Kassem's regime has been at loggerheads with Nasser for months over the Iraqi leaders' refusal to adopt a policy of Arab unity along lines advocated in Cairo.

Baghdad radio repeated its claim—denied throughout Monday by the rebels' radio Mosul—that Shawaif had been killed by his own men.

ROCKET SHIP TESTED

U.S. rocket ship X-15, expected to carry man more than 100 miles into space this summer, today successfully completed its first "captive flight" test at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Sleek, black dart was in the air for an hour and 10 minutes locked to a pylon under the wing of a B-52 bomber. X-15 may be tested on its own later this week.

Western Allies Agree
On Berlin ConferenceNO 'FARCE';
OUR AIR ARM STAYS 'RCAF'

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate banking committee today opposed a government move to give the RCAF a new French name, contending that the name could be abbreviated to "FARCE."

The committee deleted from a government bill to amend the National Defence Act a section changing the RCAF's French name from Corps d'Aviation Royal Canadien to Forces Aeriennes Royales du Canada.

Senator C. G. (Chubby) Power, Canada's wartime air minister, said if an "E" was added to the French abbreviation—FARCE or if the "C" was given a soft pronunciation, the air force would be known in French as "FARCE."

DEW Line

Greenland

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. defence department announced today that the radar warning line across the top of the continent will be extended across Greenland at a cost of more than $27,000,000.

The distant early warning line now runs from the Aleutian Islands, around Alaska and across Canada to eastern Baffin Island.

It was built to give warning of a bomber attack on North America.

PARIS (UPI)—The Western Powers have agreed on a date and site for an East-West conference on the Berlin crisis and the cold war, it was disclosed today.

French and British spokesmen made the disclosure at a joint news conference at the end of two days of talks between British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French President Charles de Gaulle.

They said Britain and France had reached basic agreement on the West's stand toward the Soviets and Berlin. They gave no details, but reliable sources said the United States already is in accord with the policy hammered out here.

The sources said the first East-West meeting would be at the foreign ministers' level in Geneva in mid-May and would be a preliminary to a possible summit meeting in July or August.

ANSWERS

This proposal will be made to the Soviet Union in the forthcoming Western answers to the Russian note of March 2, which urged a summit meeting but accepted the idea of a foreign ministers' parley first.

Firming up of the solid Western front on Berlin seemed to be the principal fruit of Macmillan's visit here.

When he arrived, he was met by noticeable coolness because of French fears over his statement last week about studying the question of withdrawing troops from both sides of the iron curtain.

But all indications now were that he had clarified to De Gaulle's satisfaction any mis-

Payments

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker emphasized today he would use every possible means of increasing aid for prairie farmers but he indicated there would be no immediate action to provide growers with the $300,000,000 in deficiency payments they have requested.

In an hour-long speech before the mass delegation of prairie grain growers he outlined some of the existing and future plans for agriculture—plans to boost farm credit and provide crop insurance, provide aid for wheat exporters and keep intact the low Crown freight rates on export grain.

Truck Fuel Tax
Boost Proposed

A bill to increase the tax on diesel, butane or propane gas used by commercial vehicles on B.C. highways from 10 to 12 cents was introduced in the legislature today.

The tax will be collected on a basis of regular returns to the government on mileage travelled in the province. It will not be paid at the time the gas is purchased.

The new system will prevent heavy transport trucks from fuelling in other provinces or states to avoid the B.C. tax.

The increase in the tax was recommended recently by a royal commission on road users.

Snark Missile Aloft

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Snark intercontinental guided missile blazed aloft today on what was reported as a highly successful round-trip flight of several thousand miles.

Workers Charge
'Lack of Faith'

By PETE LOUDON

The breach between the provincial government and its civil service widened today as a scheduled province-wide strike deadline set for 7 a.m. Friday drew nearer.

A morning meeting of the cabinet failed to grant a B.C. Government Employees Association request for a meeting aimed at averting strike action.

Provincial Secretary W. D. Black instead issued a further statement, to be read, he said, in conjunction with his statement of Monday which announced undefined wage increases.

BCGEA general secretary Ed O'Connor, advised of the cabinet decision, said from Vancouver:

"It's obvious by the tactics of the cabinet, they have no intention of bargaining in good faith, now or at any other time... the strike is still on."

Mr. Black's statement today: "The Civil Service Commission is at liberty at any time to show to interested employees the salary schedules recommended to the government by the Civil Service Commission and which the government has accepted for implementation on April 1, 1959."

SUSPICIOUS

Monday he said a $1,500,000 vote in the finance department estimates for civil service increases would be supplemented to "take care of necessary salary increases..." They would be effective April 1 except for those affecting 156 steam engineers whose increases would date back to April 1, 1958.

The BCGEA expressed doubt on the earlier statement because the premier said before that no funds could be provided except by the legislature. Supplementary votes, it was thought, would come from the cabinet.

WANT TO BE SURE

BCGEA officials were adamant in their request for a meeting with the cabinet which might erase all suspicions.

They said they want to be certain the increases promised are those which were arranged earlier in meetings with the Civil Service Commission.

A look at the schedules, as promised today, will not suffice the officials said.

Although Mr. Black has made possible scrutiny of the schedules, the association wants an agreement in writing before calling off the strike.

Mr. Black was asked again this morning if the cabinet

Strange Blast Rocks Victoria

A mysterious explosion rocked Victoria at 10 a.m. today.

Police, fire, press, and radio phones were kept busy by startled and curious residents from an area covering the whole of Greater Victoria as far north as Royal Oak.

Rock blasting, gas main explosion, and other explanations were quickly ruled out by checks with officials concerned.

Army representatives at Work Point Barracks heard the blast but said they were not responsible, and an RCN spokesman at Esquimalt said no ships were firing in the area.

... at party.

JEWELS GONE

Norah Loses
'Everything'
To Thieves

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP)—Lady Norah Docker reported nearly $500,000 worth of jewels out of her parked car Monday night.

"They've taken all my jewelry, everything I've got," wailed the blonde society figure whose exploits have made her an international headliner.

The loot included emerald bracelets, gem-encrusted earrings, and necklaces set with sapphires and diamonds.

Her industrialist husband, Sir Bernard Docker, said the theft occurred while he and his wife were attending a dinner party.

The car was parked in a dead-end street only 150 yards from the central police station.

Docker said they had the jewels in the car because they were on their way from their country estate at Stockbridge to their London apartment.
